IMMANUEL KANT AND HIS RELATIVISTS

By A. J. Reffes

Progress Publishers

For Kathy, friend, mentor and wife. Stupor Mundi.

Copyright © 2025 by A. J. Reffes. All rights reserved. Published by Progress Publishers, Berlin, Germany.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION 3

THE MUSLIM INTERNATIONAL 4

IMMANUEL KANT AND HIS RELATIVISTS 6

AUSTRIA'S MARXISTS AND MUSLIMS APPOINT HITLER FUHRER 9

BRITAIN BANS FREEDOM 11

DOWNHILL NATION 13

MIGRANTS, MINARETS, MOSQUES AND MINNESOTA 16

REDS EMPTY JAILS 18

EUROPE--WEIMAR--THE END 20

MONSTER ARCHITECT DIES 23

GERMANY GASSES FREE SPEECH 25

MARXIST MANIA MURDERS FREE SPEECH 28

THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SCIENCE REVIEW EDITED BY JULIUS STREICHER 30

DEMOCRAT PARTY: MARXIST MAINSTREAM OF AMERICA 32

THE AFFORDABLE CARE ACT: AMERICA'S SACRED COW 35

THREE CHEERS FOR GLOBALISM 38

RELIGION KILLS 40

THE GREAT WHITE WHALE 42

THE ENEMIES WITHIN 44

BRITAIN UNDER SURVEILLANCE 47

JEW HATRED SWEEPS THROUGH THE WORLD 49

INTRODUCTION

These reports are intended for a general, nonspecialist audience. They run the gamut of the arts and sciences, historical and current events, and should provide the reader with useful introductions to given topics. May they encourage a few happy hours of suggestive thought!

THE MUSLIM INTERNATIONAL

The Comintern calls you,/Raise high Soviet banner,/In steeled ranks to battle/Raise sickle and hammer./Our answer: Red Legions/We raise in our might/Our answer: Red Storm Troops/We lunge to the fight./From Russia Victorious/The Worker's October/Comes storming reaction's/Regime the world over/We're coming with Lenin/For Bolshevik work/From London, Havana,/Berlin, and New York/Rise up fields and workshops./Come out workers, farmers,/To battle march onward,/March on world stormers/Eyes sharp on your guns/Red banners unfurled/Advance, Proletarians/To conquer the world. (Comintern March by Hanns Eisler). The Comintern. On March 4, 1919 in Moscow, at a conference convened by Vladimir Lenin and the Russian Communist Party, the Communist International was founded to overthrow capitalism throughout the world. This fearsome international organization established communist parties in all nations and placed them under the control of Moscow. It was a world communist party, a communist colonial empire, whose national parties, agents, sympathizers, fellow travelers, front groups, conspiracies, infiltrations and espionage operations pledged themselves to destroy every last trace of freedom on the planet on behalf of a religion springing out of the pages of the Communist Manifesto. In the twenty first century, the Communist International has reappeared under a new name with a new program, but with the same mission to destroy freedom throughout the world. In the twenty first century, the spirit of the times has brought a new totalitarian enemy of freedom into world power, and this enemy is part of the global trend of religious revivalism bringing down the apocalypse on the West. This successor to Comintern represents the other side of an age old coin called the rejection of reason which powered the original version. One side of the coin is called materialism, which rejects the existence of mind, while the other side is called spiritualism, which devalues the existence of matter. The materialists produced the Communist International, whose Marxist creed is an anthem to mindless proletarian muscle labor as the source of all wealth. The spiritualists produced a movement in the eighth century which has seen a resurgence in the present day and achieved global power and influence. Devaluing the existence of matter and exalting a supernatural being called God, a being devoid of place and time, as the supreme existence, this movement preaches its creed from the Quran and is called Islam. In the twenty first century, the Communist International Marxists, preaching their creed of materialism from the Communist Manifesto, have been succeeded by an international organization called the Muslim Brotherhood, preaching its creed of spiritualism from the Quran, and this international political organization, like its predecessor, has galvanized the sewers and gutters of the world in a holy war against civilization. Founded in Egypt in 1928 by Hassan Al Banna, the Muslim Brotherhood is described by the Independent Program on Extremism at George Washington University as "the world's oldest and arguably most influential contemporary Islamist movement." The movement seeks to establish a global caliphate enforcing sharia, the body of laws based on the Quran, and overthrowing liberal secular laws and institutions. Marching under the slogan Islam is the solution, the organization, like its Communist International predecessor, controls national parties, agents, sympathizers, fellow travelers, front groups, conspiracies, infiltrations and espionage operations, in pursuit of its aim of world conquest. Muslim Brotherhood. Look at the Muslim Brotherhood and see a Muslim octopus whose terror operations reach across the world. See a militant organization whose madness commenced on the day of its founding a century ago. See it conduct a jihad against liberal democracy and condemn the Enlightenment in the name of Allah. See it subject the voices of dissent to a campaign of beatings, assassinations, plunder, desecration and vandalism. See it mourn the death of Osama bin Laden and murder thousands of people under the command of sharia. See it worship Adolf Hitler, deny the Holocaust, defend the Holocaust, and launch missiles of hate against Jews and Israel. See it reopen Hitler's gas chambers for Jews throughout the world. See it bomb Christian churches and place Coptic Christians in the grip of fear. See it promote subversion in the name of the Prophet and seek to establish a global caliphate of totalitarian control. See it smash the separation between church and state, usurp power rightfully belonging to the government, and place it into the hands of the pharaohs of Islam. See it overthrow liberal constitutions, ban freedom of speech, and raze the houses of secular humanism with the bulldozers of blasphemy prosecutions. See it sacrifice human freedom and dignity on the altars of Islamic radicalism and revolution. See it sacrifice global security and a rules based order on the altars of jihadist ideology. See it replace the rule of law with the rule of Muslim power and enact Islamic legal codes of total lawlessness. See it promote terror as a way of life and sacred instruction. See its affiliate Hamas seize control over Gaza, commit suicide bombings, and launch terror attacks on Israel on October 7, 2023, killing 1200 Israelis and foreign nationals and kidnapping 251 people. See its networks raise money throughout the world in support of Hamas. See its affiliates, HASM, Liwa al-Thawra, the Holy Land Foundation and the Palestine Committee in the US, conduct bombings, assassinations and raise funds for terror in the name of the Community of the Faithful. See it advance an agenda of violence, destruction and antiEnlightenment, following in the footsteps of the Communist International and send free populations running for their lives: "The Muslim Brotherhood is a militant Islamist organization with affiliates in over 70 countries, including groups designated as terrorist organizations by the US. The Muslim Brotherhood has been militant from its very beginning. Its founder, Hassan al-Banna, who started the group in 1928, said that, quote: 'Jihad is an obligation from Allah and every Muslim and cannot be ignored nor evaded.' And in a book titled The Way of Jihad' he wrote: 'Jihad means the fighting of the unbelievers and involves all possible efforts that are necessary to dismantle the power of the enemies of Islam, including beating them, plundering their wealth, destroying their places of worship, and smashing their idols,' end quote. This belief was put into action in the decades that followed as the Muslim Brotherhood's members committed numerous acts of terrorism, including the assassination of Egypt's Prime Minister in 1948. This jihadist ideology continues to fuel the Muslim Brotherhood today. The Brotherhood mourned the death of Osama bin Laden and its leaders developed teachings justifying revolutionary violence under sharia law. The Brotherhood has preached hatred towards Jews, denied the Holocaust, and called for Israel's destruction. The Brotherhood has incited violence against Coptic Christians in Egypt amidst a wave of church bombings and other attacks by terrorist groups, including ISIS. Yusuf al-Qaradawi, perhaps the Brotherhood's preeminent cleric, issued a fatwa legitimizing terrorist attacks against American troops in Iraq. And he's also deemed the Holocaust to be a, quote, 'punishment for Jews,' and expressed hope that another Holocaust would someday be carried out by his fellow Islamists. The Muslim Brotherhood's Supreme Guide, Mohammed Badie, has said that the organization's goal is to establish a new Islamist caliphate, including the imposition of sharia law, which is the totalitarian Islamic legal code. We saw what happens when the Brotherhood takes control of a country in Egypt from 2012 to 2013, and the results were chilling, that then President Mohamed Morsi defied the rule of law and granted himself near absolute power. As Egyptian leader Mohamed El Baradi put it, Morsi usurped all state powers and appointed himself Egypt's new pharaoh. The Brotherhood's legislators enshrined the principles of sharia as the main source of law in Egypt's Constitution, while the Morsi government used state institutions to promote Islamic radicalism, roll back freedom of the press, and launched a wave of blasphemy prosecutions. The Morsi Muslim Brotherhood government is no more, but the Brotherhood and its affiliates continue to advance their agenda across the Middle East and throughout the world. There's no question that the Muslim Brotherhood affiliates are involved in terrorism. Former FBI Director Robert Mueller confirmed as much in testimony before Congress when he said that elements of the Brotherhood, both here and overseas, have supported terrorism. A number of these Brotherhood affiliates have been designated as terrorist organizations by the United States Government. The Muslim Brotherhood's Palestinian branch Hamas has been a designated foreign terrorist organization since 1997. Hamas has taken control of the Gaza Strip, launched thousands of rockets against Israeli civilians, and committed suicide bombings and other terrorist attacks that have murdered numerous Israeli and American civilians. Muslim Brotherhood networks raise money here in the US to support Hamas' terrorist activities in the Middle East. According to the Department of Justice, in the early 1990s, Hamas' parent organization, the Muslim Brotherhood, planned to establish a network of organizations in the US to spread a militant Islamist message and raise money for Hamas. And the Texas based Holy Land Foundation became the chief fundraising arm for the Palestine Committee in the US, created by the Brotherhood to support Hamas. In 2008, the Holy Land Foundation leaders were convicted of crimes, including providing material support for Hamas. Most recently the State Department designated two offshoots of the Egyptian Muslim Brotherhood, HASM and Liwa al-Thawra, as terrorist organizations under Executive Order 13224. The State Department noted that these groups are responsible for bombings and assassinations of senior Egyptian officials." (The Muslim Brotherhood's Global Threat, House Subcommittee on National Security, July 11, 2018). Muslim Brotherhood. "What's in a name? That which we call a rose/By any other name would smell as sweet." This line spoken by Juliet in Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet points to the eternal truth that the essence of something takes precedence over its name. Peddling an ideology of hate, bringing down a reign of terror and imposing theocratic rule, the Muslim Brotherhood is another name for the Communist International. The terrifying essence running through them is writing the final lines of civilization.

IMMANUEL KANT AND HIS RELATIVISTS

Scene One: A Hollister Company clothing store in Leeds, England. Scene Two: A beach salesman showing necklaces to tourists in Mexico. Scene Three: A vegetable seller in a tiny Sri Lankan village. These are scenes of selling, the practice of exchanging goods for money, a practice as old as civilization itself, involving buyers and sellers in a nexus of voluntary transactions and mutual benefits traditionally advancing human flourishing. Alongside of this traditional practice producing moral benefits has been dark selling peddling poison. Here the seller introduces potential customers to goods he knows will harm them and relishes the prospect of human destruction. The seller is a sadist, deriving supreme pleasure in causing people to morally and spiritually die, and celebrates the spectacle of mass cultural death and civilizational collapse. In the eighteenth century, a peddler of mental poison emerged in the world of philosophy, the most evil peddler of mental poison the world had ever seen, and he set into motion movements denying the existence of truth, movements which have nullified the Enlightenment in the twenty first century. He is the most influential and discussed philosopher in the West, and expresses the Western Faustian ethos of romanticism and subjectivism like no other philosopher, and plays the role in the West which Aristotle played in Classical Apollonian culture. He hated the Enlightenment and sought to subvert it and return the West to its Faustian roots and to the Dark Ages before the Renaissance. His name was Immanuel Kant, and he proclaimed his fearsome mission in his magnum opus, Critique Of Pure Reason: "I have found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith." To deny knowledge: an open, brazen call to the psychotics of the world, a call such as the world had never heard before, to rise up and storm the ramparts of civilization. To deny knowledge: a declaration of war against the Enlightenment, the one period in the West which affirmed the existence of` human knowledge, the one period in the West which supported the Classical Apollonian philosophy affirming the belief of human sanity and common sense that man perceives physical objects which are as they are. To deny knowledge: a vial of mental poison which would darken the river of Western philosophy, lower its water level, and make it vanish into the soil of cultural sickness and degeneracy. All philosophies after Kant have been but asterisks and footnotes on his system, restatements in different forms and guises of Kant's main line, the rejection of the existence and perceivability of physical objects, and all advocating various offshoot philosophies of relativism. Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that there is no difference between blindness and sight, because man is blind whenever he sees and is blind because he has eyes. Whenever man perceives something, he perceives nothing, because perception perceives nothing beyond itself. The world revealed by perception, the world of physical objects in space and time which are as they are, is a veil of illusion, a product of our visual system, and reality, that which is not perceived or perceivable by any visual system, is something nonphysical, nonlocational, nontemporal and supernatural: "I understand by the idealism of all appearances the doctrine that they are all together to be regarded as mere representations and not things in themselves, and accordingly that time and space are only subjective forms of our perception, not determinations given for themselves or conditions of objects as things in themselves. To this idealism is opposed realism, which regards space and time as something given in themselves, independent of our perception." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant argue on the basis of a false premise and arrive at an insane conclusion. The false premise is that man achieves knowledge of reality by apriori means or independently of all experience. Common sense affirms, by contrast, that man achieves knowledge of reality by means of induction or abstraction from the data of the senses. On the basis of his false premise, Kant proclaims that knowledge of reality is not possible to man, because the universal apriori forms function as fixed implants serving as perceptual screens blocking reality. On the basis of his false premise, Kant proclaims that socalled knowledge does not know or mirror reality but creates reality, and that the science of metaphysics, the science which claims to investigate the fundamental laws of reality, is in actual fact the science of nothing: "Hitherto it has been assumed that all our knowledge must conform to objects. But all attempts to extend our knowledge of objects by establishing something in regard to them apriori, by means of concepts independently of experience, have, on this assumption, ended in failure. We must therefore find out if we may not have more success in the tasks of metaphysics if we suppose that objects must conform to our knowledge." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Kant's Students. Now listen to Kant's students proclaim that the notion of objective truth is a product of ethnocentricity. Truth is relative to culture and civilization; there exist as many truths as there exist cultures and civilizations; and there is in fact an infinite universe of truths because there is an infinite universe of cultures and civilizations: "Now while some of the interest in anthropology in its earlier stages was in the exotic and the out of the way, yet even this antiquarian motivation ultimately contributed to a broader result. Anthropologists became aware of the diversity of culture. They began to see the tremendous range of its variations. From that, they commenced to envisage it as a totality, as no historian of one period or of a single people was likely to do, nor any analyst of his own type of civilization alone. They became aware of culture as a universe, or vast field in which we of today and our own civilization occupy only one place of many. The result was a widening of a fundamental point of view, a departure from unconscious ethnocentricity toward relativity. This shift from naive self centeredness in one's own time and spot to a broader view based on objective comparison is somewhat like the change from the original geocentric assumption of astronomy to the Copernican interpretation of the solar system and the subsequent still greater widening to a universe of galaxies." (Anthropology by Alfred Kroeber). Kant's Students. Listen to Kant's students proclaim that Western culture is only one culture among a vast array of cultures, and its values possess no greater validity than the values defended by any other cultures: "The study of custom can be profitable only after certain preliminary propositions have been violently opposed. In the first place any scientific study requires that there be no preferential weighting of one or another items in the series it selects for its consideration. In all the less controversial fields like the study of cacti or termites or the nature of nebulae, the necessary method of study is to group the relevant material and to take note of all possible variant forms and conditions. In this way we have learned all that we know of the laws of astronomy, or of the habits of the social insects, let us say. It is only in the study of man himself that the major social sciences have substituted the study of one local variation, that of Western civilization." (Patterns Of Culture by Ruth Benedict). Kant's Students. Listen to Kant's students proclaim that the common sense belief that there exist objective truth and morality must be reexamined and rejected by virtue of the existence of an infinite universe of cultures: "The other promise of anthropology, one less fully distinguished and attended to than the first, has been to serve as a form of cultural critique for ourselves. In using portraits of other cultural patterns to reflect self critically on our own ways, anthropology disrupts common sense and makes us reexamine our taken for granted assumptions." (Anthropology as Cultural Critique: The Experimental Moment in the Human Sciences by George Marcus and Michael Fischer). Kant's Students. Listen to Kant's students proclaim that there are no such things as objective truth, morality or universal human rights. Truth and morality are relative to nations, peoples, cultures and social groups, and there is an African morality, a Chinese morality, a Mayan morality, an Indonesian morality and a Russian morality, no one of which can be held to be more true or more valid than any other. The belief that acts of aggression, murder, robbery, vandalism and wanton destruction are objectively wrong is a product of Western culture and has no basis in reality: "The problem is thus to formulate a statement of human rights that will do more than phrase respect for the individual as individual. It must also take into full account the individual as a member of a social group of which he is part, whose sanctioned modes of life shape his behavior, and with whose fate his own is thus inextricably bound. The bulk of this statement emphasizes concern that the Declaration of Human Rights was being prepared primarily by people from Western societies, and would express values that, far from being universal, are really Western. Today the problem is complicated by the fact that the Declaration must be of world wide applicability. It must embrace and recognize the validity of many different ways of life. It will not be convincing to the Indonesian, the African, the Chinese, if it lies on the same plane as like documents of an earlier period. The rights of Man in the Twentieth Century cannot be circumscribed by the standards of any single culture, or be dictated by the aspirations of any single people. Such a document will lead to frustration, not realization of the personalities of vast numbers of human beings." (Statement On Human Rights by Melville Herskovitz, American Anthropologist, 1947). Kant's Students. The common sense doctrine that truth is objective is self evident, while the doctrine that truth is relative is self cancelling, because it itself can only be relatively true and not objectively true. There exists no objective knowledge because all socalled knowledge is relative to the human race. Thus was the opening shot in an attack on knowledge without precedent in the history of mankind. The opening shot was fired by Immanuel Kant. It would be succeeded by an endless series of attacks launched over the centuries. Knowledge is relative to the classes of the proletariat and the bourgeois. Knowledge is relative to races such as the Aryan race and the Jewish race. Knowledge is relative to gender. Knowledge is relative to culture. Knowledge is relative to social consensus. Knowledge is relative to the community of special investigators. Knowledge is relative to unconscious human drives and instincts. Knowledge is relative to the state. Knowledge is relative to the will to power. Knowledge is relative to the needs and interests of society. Knowledge is relative to passion and prejudice. Knowledge is relative to feeling and intuition. Knowledge is relative to language games and forms of linguistic life. Knowledge is relative to time, place, situation and human existence. Knowledge is relative to intersubjective communication. Knowledge is relative to texts. Knowledge is relative to sexual orientation. Morality consists in obedience to a series of categorical commands or deontological duties issued by the will, commands which must be obeyed without regard to consequences, obeyed no matter what happens to oneself or to others, obeyed though all manner of evil and injustice be unleashed upon the world. Beauty consists in the free play of pure forms without content, imitation or representation of any kind. Painting is "abstract", formalist and is the painting of nothing. Literature consists of stories devoid of action and sequence and are stories of nothing. Music is nonmelodic and consists of atonal noise, and singing consists of atonal screeching. Sculpture is the sculpture of nothing. Films consists of successions of scenes without plot or meaning. These attacks on truth, morality and art were set into motion by the prince of philosophic darkness in the eighteenth century, who succeeded in his mission and brought an end to the Enlightenment. In the twenty first century, his students have brought an end to civilization.

AUSTRIA'S MARXISTS AND MUSLIMS APPOINT HITLER FUHRER

His ties to Austria commenced with his birth and remained solid until the end of his days. He was born in Braunau am Inn, an Austrian town near the German border, and moved to Linz, the capital of Upper Austria, when he was nine years old. Throughout his life, he considered Linz to be his hometown. He founded the Bruckner Symphony Orchestra in the city in 1943, and had a dream that the city's bell towers would play Bruckner's Fourth Symphony. After the Anschluss in 1938, he returned to Linz to proclaim the Greater German Reich from the balcony of the city hall. Designating the city as a Fuhrerstadt, he planned to retire there. In the twenty first century, eighty years after his Third Reich vanished in smoking ruins and debris, Adolf Hitler realized his plan, but came back with new comrades he had made in the intervening years. In the twenty first century, Hitler is back in Austria at the head of a new axis power, continuing his hate campaign against Jews. In his native country, his original Anschluss brownshirts have been replaced by the red shirts of a Marxist-Muslim axis serving as the premier movement of Jew hatred in the world today, and the flames of antiEnlightenment are climbing ever higher in Austria. These flames are sweeping across Europe and the world, a global conflagration in a new age of religion supplanting the institutions of the Enlightenment, setting the house of freedom on fire with torches worshiping the gods of the Collective on earth and Allah in heaven, the gods of Marxism and Islam. Austria Today. Look at Austria today and see this new axis power bring Hitler back and spread violent Jew hatred across the nation, a hatred not seen in the nation for decades. See far left and Muslim communities support the Hamas terror attack on Israel of October 7, 2023. See antisemitic attacks in Hitler's native country double by the hour. See a flood, a tidal wave and a tsunami of antisemitic violence submerge homes, schools, offices and businesses. See left wing perpetrators and Muslim perpetrators of antisemitic violence fill police case files to overflowing. See Marxists and Muslims, differing in specific ideologies, unite in hatred of Israel and liberal democratic institutions. See the Marxist-Muslim axis give praise and worship to the god of terror and the god of Hamas. See the axis call for violence against Jews and justify the Holocaust in the name of resistance to Western capitalist oppression. See the axis group Palestine Solidarity Austria commit violent crimes against Jews. See the axis condemn Israel as a genocidal regime because it fights Palestinian terror with all the means at its disposal, and seeks to spread freedom into the West Bank through its settlements. See the axis confront Jews on a daily basis with the language of threats, property damage and physical assaults. See Jews stop reporting incidents of antisemitic violence to the police because of police indifference and inaction. See Jewish parents tell their children not to reveal their Jewish identity in public and to hide their Stars of David. See Jews take side streets and detours on the way to synagogues. See campus hotlines overload with emergency calls reporting antisemitic violence. See Jewish college students deprived of safety and security, pushed into ghettoes, and excluded from academic and extracurricular events: "Since the Hamas terror attack of October 7th, 2023, Austria has been experiencing a wave of antisemitism unseen in decades. According to the Jewish Community of Vienna (IKG), hatred of Jews has become alarmingly common, driven primarily by perpetrators from the far left and Muslim communities. In the first half of 2025, the IKG recorded 726 antisemitic incidents—more than double the number before the October 7th pogrom. Although slightly fewer than in 2024 (808), the figures remain alarmingly high. IKG President Oskar Deutsch warned: 'The Antisemitic tsunami has become a continuous flood.' Most incidents were attributed to left wing extremists (202 cases), followed by Muslim perpetrators (195), while 147 originated from the right wing spectrum. In 182 cases, no clear political motive could be established. Hatred of Israel dominates the statistics: around 80% of all incidents were Israel related, often involving the justification of terrorism and open glorification of Hamas. In 77 cases, direct calls for violence against Jews were documented. The IKG notes that antisemitic narratives have increasingly shifted to the far left, where antiIsrael activism is presented as 'resistance.' Groups such as Palestine Solidarity Austria have played a central role in spreading this rhetoric. According to the IKG, these circles frequently reinterpret or relativize the Holocaust—equating Israel with nazi Germany. Physical attacks have also risen, particularly in the summer months. Of the 726 cases, five involved assaults, eight threats, and 78 property damage. 'Antisemitic attacks have become a constant burden,' said IKG Secretary General Benjamin Nagele, emphasizing that many victims no longer report incidents. Rising antisemitism is not limited to Austria. Across Europe, similar patterns are emerging—in Germany, Jewish families are telling their children not to reveal their identity at school. Students hide Star of David necklaces before stepping onto campus. Worshippers take detours on their way to the synagogue. In the Netherlands, students have launched hotlines to report campus antisemitism, as many Jewish students feel unsafe, isolated, and excluded at the university." (Austria Sees Record Antisemitism Surge Tied To Leftists, Islamists by Rebeka Kis). Austria Today. Look at Austria today and see a Marxist-Muslim axis send waves of death and destruction rolling against Jews. See it deny service to Jews at restaurants and campsites. See it stage festivals of violence against Jews and wash its hands in Jewish blood. See it lynch Jews from trees of hate and rage. See it storm public stages and place audiences in the grip of fear. See it organize mobs to slaughter Jews. See it reject Israeli campers, passports and tourists. See it unfurl banners demanding permanent Hamas rule in Gaza and a permanent terror campaign against Jews. See it refuse service to Israeli musicians speaking Hebrew. See it humiliate Jews in schools, shops, theaters and streets, and transform Austria 2025 into Germany 1933: "Austria is experiencing a disturbing wave of antisemitic and antiIsrael incidents, as multiple Israeli visitors have recently denied service at restaurants and campsites, and protesters disrupted one of the country's most prestigious cultural events, the Salzburg Festival. On Saturday, six antiIsrael activists stormed the stage during Austrian Vice Chancellor Andreas Babler's opening speech at the Salzburg Festival, shouting 'Blood on your hands!' while wearing fake staff badges. One protester, hands pianted red and raised high shouted 'Blood on your hands!' For many Jews, bloody hands evoke memories the 2000 Ramallah lynching, when a Palestinian terrorist held up his bloodied hands to a cheering mob after brutally slaughtering two Israeli soldiers. The gesture has since become a symbol of intimidation, used to provoke and instil fear. Banners reading Free Gaza Now were also unfurled during the incident. The breach, which occurred at one of Europe's most renowned classical music events, has drawn intense scrutiny over security lapses. The counterfeit badges used by the activists were riddled with errors, including a misspelling of the festival name and fictitious names. No background checks were conducted, raising alarm about what might have happened if the intruders had been armed. Festival director Lukas Crepaz said security measures have since been tightened. Meanwhile, David Sonnenbaum, one of the intruders, admitted to Austria's Kurier newspaper, 'I was amazed, myself, at how easy it was.' Just days earlier, Israeli couple Nissan and Michal Dekalo were turned away from Camping Dr. Lauth in Ehrwald, Tyrol while celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. After parking their camper and preparing to check in, the couple presented their Israeli passports—prompting a chilling response from staff: 'We have no place for Jews here.' Dekalo, who lives in Kibbutz Nahal Oz near the Gaza border and played a critical role in defending his community during the October 7 Hamas massacre, described the incident as both humiliating and surreal. 'We tried to understand innocently if they had a bad experience with Israelis before,' he wrote, 'but no, it's about Gaza.' When questioned by German language outlet Judische Allgemeine, the campsite's operator responded: 'These people should much rather take care of the many children in Gaza. Otherwise, there is nothing to say.' In Vienna, three Israeli classical musicians—Amit Peled, Julia Gurvitch, and Hagai Shaham—were refused service at Pizzeria Ristorante Ramazotti after speaking Hebrew while placing their order. Peled recalled that when asked what language they were speaking, he replied, 'Hebrew, of course.' The waiter then responded, 'In that case, leave. I'm not serving you food.' 'The initial shock and humiliation were profound,' Peled wrote on social media. 'But what struck us even more deeply was what came next—or rather, what didn't. The people around us went back to their dinner as though nothing had happened. Welcome to Europe 2025.' " ('We Have No Place For Jews Here': Israeli Visitors Harassed In Wave of Antisemitic Incidents Across Austria, Combat Antisemitism Movement, July 30, 2025). Austria Today. March 12, 1938. Austrian national socialists take over the Austrian government and German troops occupy the nation. March 15, 1938. Adolf Hitler thunders out to cheering mobs on Vienna's Heldenplatz, proclaiming the "reunification" of his native country with the "rest of the German Reich". In the twenty first century, ninety years after Hitler's hymns of Jew hate crossed the border into Austria, the prince of antisemites is back on Heldenplatz, thundering out his madness. He appears in a new form, created by the spirit of the times. He brandishes the flags of a new axis power. He is the fuhrer of a new multiheaded, Marxist-Muslim monster spewing out Jew hatred, hatred of whites, hatred of capitalism and hatred of the West in the name of feminists, queers, transgenders and Palestinians: "A 'post colonial' left is in solidarity with Palestinians (or generally with the Global South against the West), and in doing so regards Israel as a colonial–and thus illegitimate–white suppression project. Parts of the feminist, queer and other leftists, who consider themselves progressive, adopt antisemitic narratives towards Israel." (Jew Hatred At Record High: The New Antisemitism Is Left Wing And Muslim by Stefan Bieg). He and his new legions are on the march across Austria. They have annexed the nation to their international movement.

BRITAIN BANS FREEDOM

It was once a great nation. It was the original beacon of freedom in modern times, and its global empire spread the light of freedom into distant savage lands. Its Magna Carta of 1215 revived its ancient constitution of freedom going back to the Anglo-Saxons, which the Norman invasion of 1066 had overthrown, and proclaimed that individuals are free born agents and may not be deprived of their freedoms without the process due to free born agents, or without just cause or "due process of law." Its Case of Proclamations of 1610 proclaimed that the Crown cannot challenge natural law, common law, constitutional law or parliamentary law: "The King by his proclamation or other ways cannot change any part of the common law, or statute law, or the customs of the realm. The King has no prerogative but that which the law of the land allows him." Its Dr Bonham's Case of 1610 proclaimed that the parliament is not all powerful and cannot violate natural laws: "In many cases, the common law will control Acts of Parliament". This famous court case established the principle of judicial review which influenced the United States Constitution and Supreme Court. Its Petition of Right of 1628 proclaimed that individuals possess inherent rights and no individual may be imprisoned or deprived of his property without just cause or due process of law. Its Habeas Corpus Act of 1679 protected the right of the individual not to be unlawfully imprisoned, giving him the right to challenge his imprisonment at any time. Its Bill of Rights Act of 1689 proclaimed the supremacy of parliament over the Crown, the right of the people to have free and fair elections, and the right to be free from the imposition of cruel or unusual punishment. This bill influenced the United States Bill of Rights, the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights and the European Convention on Human Rights. Its leading philosopher John Locke, in his Second Treatise On Representative Government in 1689, proclaimed that individuals possess "natural rights" to "life, liberty and property" which no government can take away without just cause or due process of law. It is a nation located in Northwestern Europe off the coast of the continental mainland, a nation comprising England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, a nation with a population of 70 million people occupying 244,000 square kilometers, and it is called Britain. In the twenty first century, this storied birthplace of freedom has succumbed to the global zeitgeist of statism and by massive popular consent has repealed its one thousand year old constitution of freedom. In the twenty first century, the nation whose principles, treatises, laws and customs of freedom inspired the world has descended into tyranny and presented a spectacle which has sent the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. It is the spectacle of the West's first nation of freedom committing suicide and placing its parliament in the service of the forces the nation fought against throughout its long history, which it defeated in two world wars and defeated in the face of internal authoritarian movements. Look at Britain in the twenty first century and see a timeline of treason which has rendered the nation unrecognizable. Item. The Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act of 2000 allows the government to place under surveillance of all forms of communication. Item. The Criminal Justice Act of 2003 repeals the ancient right against double jeopardy, the right not to be tried twice for the same offense, in cases with "new and compelling evidence." Item. The Civil Contingencies Act of 2004 allows the government to deploy soldiers anywhere in the nation during peacetime by declaring an emergency, and allows the government to take possession of private property anywhere in the nation without paying compensation, by declaring an emergency. Item. The Serious Organized Crime and Police Act of 2005 allows the government to ban speech which "incites religious hatred." Item. The Equality Act of 2010 allows the government to invade the sphere of private existence, the sphere of private property, private employment and private services, and ban discrimination on the basis of age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, marriage, civil partnership, "gender reassignment," pregnancy, maternity, race, religion or belief. Item. The Counter Terrorism and Border Security Act of 2019 allows the government to stop, question, detain and search people without a warrant, without evidence and without probable cause, in order to determine if they are or have been involved in terrorism or hostile activity. Item. Britain today has abolish the right of free speech. It has banned speech which hurts people's feelings. It has banned speech causing fear. It has banned speech causing alarm or distress. It has banned speech making threats. It has banned speech showing disrespect toward soldiers. It has banned speech calling people names like leprechauns. It has banned speech singing martial arts songs like Kung Fu Fighting. It has banned speech calling the Church of Scientology what it is, an insane, dangerous cult. It has banned speech Marxists and Muslims find to be toxic and repulsive. It has banned speech expressing national socialist extremism while protecting speech expressing Marxist extremism or Muslim extremism. It has banned speech expressing fascist white power racism while protecting speech expressing Marxist black power racism. It has banned speech expressing right wing doctrines while protecting speech expressing left wing doctrines. It has criminalized speech opposing Marxist and Muslim values. It has established a special category of crime called thought crimes, acts of speech contravening Marxist and Muslim orthodoxies. It has censored speech opposing political correctness laid down by the Marxist-Muslim party line. It has removed paintings from museums depicting politically incorrect scenes, such as shot guns, terrifying politically correct people. It has banned speech Marxists and Muslims find to be threatening to public order, safety and security. It has banned prayers to the Christian deity while protecting prayers to Marxist and Muslim deities. It has banned depictions of national socialist images and symbols while protecting depictions of Marxist and Muslim images and symbols. It has banned speech promoting Western Enlightenment views. It has banned speech promoting liberal, rational, humanist culture. It has banned speech criticizing police truncheons deployed to protect the rights of Marxists and Muslims and the rights of nobody else. It has banned speech expressing national socialist hate while protecting speech expressing Marxist and Muslim hate. It has established an army of speech police with unlimited manpower and resources, covering the online and offline worlds in a net of control, ensuring that all views challenging the Marxist and Muslim cultural and political establishment are suppressed, and unleashing George Orwell's 1984 upon twenty first century Britain: "In my book, The Indispensable Right, I discuss how free speech is in a free fall in Great Britain, where officials continue to crack down on an ever widening array of viewpoints. This week, that ignoble record worsened with the arrest of Jon Richelieu-Booth, who told the Yorkshire Post that he was arrested for posting a picture on the networking site LinkedIn of himself holding a shotgun at a friend’s homestead in Florida. West Yorkshire Police allegedly warned him about the post and told him to be 'careful' about what he says online and 'how it makes people feel.' They later came back and arrested Richelieu-Booth over allegedly possessing a firearm with intent to cause fear of violence, and a charge of alleged stalking over another picture of a house on his profile. He attempted to show that the photo was taken in the United States, but the police brushed him off. While the police eventually dropped the case, it dragged on for months, with multiple visits from officers. However, according to The Telegraph, Mr Richelieu-Booth has been charged with a public order offense over another social media post. The media reported that he was not informed of the contents of that picture. The West Yorkshire Police spokesman issued a statement: 'Police received a complaint of stalking involving serious alarm or distress, relating partly to social media posts, several of which included pictures of a male posing with a variety of firearms which the complainant took to be a threat.' None of this is in the least surprising. For years, I have been writing about the decline of free speech in the United Kingdom and the steady stream of arrests. A man was convicted of sending a tweet while drunk, referring to dead soldiers. Another was arrested for an antipolice t shirt. Another was arrested for calling the Irish boyfriend of his exgirlfriend a 'leprechaun.' Yet another was arrested for singing King Fu Fighting. A teenager was arrested for protesting outside of a Scientology center with a sign calling the religion a 'cult.' Last year, Nicholas Brock, 52, was convicted of a thought crime in Maidenhead, Berfkshire. The neonazi was given a four year sentence for what the court called his 'toxic ideology' based on the contents of the home he shared with his mother in Maidenhead, Berkshire. Judge Peter Lodder QC dismissed free speech or free thought concerns with a truly Orwellian statement: 'I do not sentence you for your political views, but the extremity of those views informs the assessment of dangerousness.' Lodder lambasted Brock for holding nazi and other hateful values: 'it is clear that you are a right wing extremist, your enthusiasm for this repulsive and toxic ideology is demonstrated by the graphic and racist iconography which you have studied and appeared to share with others.' " (British Arrested Man For Posting A Picture Holding A Shotgun In The United States by Jonathan Turley). Britain Today. The Revolution was made to preserve our ancient indisputable laws and liberties, and that ancient constitution of government which is our only security for law and liberty. (Before The Glorious Revolution: The Making Of Absolute Monarchy? by Graham Goodlad, quoting Edmund Burke). Thus spoke Edmund Burke, describing the Glorious Revolution of 1688, deposing King James and smashing the centralized authoritarian state he had founded. The Glorious Revolution returned Britain to its glorious roots in the Anglo-Saxon soil of freedom, and involved all classes of the population seeking to live and flourish like human beings. The revolution left its impact for three centuries. It was set on the road to reversal in the age of statism commencing at the dawn of the twentieth century. In the twenty first century, the Glorious Revolution has been hurled into the dustbin of history by the British mob's inglorious movement repealing due process, civil liberties and freedom of speech.

DOWNHILL NATION

It has many names. Zeitgeist. Weltgeist. The Spirit of the Times. The Overton Window. It refers to the intellectual, moral and political climate of a given epoch of a culture, the range of ideas acceptable to the mainstream at a given time in history. The period since the dawn of the twentieth century marks an epoch in the history of the West called the age of religion. It is the final age of this shining and impactful culture, the age in which reason and science, ruling for centuries, have been rejected, and the ideas of the Enlightenment hurled into the dustbin of history. In Classical culture, an age of religion commenced in ancient Rome in the first century AD and saw the overthrow of the Senate and Constitution and the worship of caesar, socialism, statism and class war by the new mobs. The age picked up speed in the fourth century AD, bringing the legalization of Christianity under Emperor Constantine. In the fifth century, the smoking ruins and debris of the Roman Empire were testaments to the triumph of Christianity and barbarism over pagan reason. The age of religion in the West has felled nations great and small, sparing nothing in its relentless advance. In the twentieth century, it pushed the mightiest nation on earth, a beacon and arsenal of freedom such as the world had never seen, on the path of inexorable decline, and in the twenty first century, the descent has picked up speed and rendered the United States of America a morally and fiscally bankrupt shell of its former self. Look at America today and see the age of religion wreak total devastation. The religions at work destroying America are the Marxist Left, the Christian Right, fascism and Islam. Religion. See those who murder in the name of Marxism exalted as civil rights heroes and noble revolutionaries, while those who defend the cause of freedom are condemned as right wing hate mongers. See Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents, seeking to seal the borders, end illegal immigration and deport enemy aliens, condemned by Marxists as slave catchers and Gestapo jackboots. See former FBI Director James Comey, a voice of Marxism, commit treason and leak false documents to the press alleging that Donald Trump was a Russian agent spying on America: "Investigative journalist Matt Taibbi joined Jesse Watters on Friday night to discuss the James Comey indictments. Taibbi blasted Comey for leaking false documents to the leftist press accusing President Trump of being a Russian spy. This was something Comey KNEW was factually incorrect and yet he took these actions to take down a sitting US President. The criminal charges against Comey are much more serious than what the media is reporting! In a previous time in American history Comey would be hanged for treason. Matt Taibbi: 'People have to remember what is the substance of these lies? What were they for? These news stories that were put out there that were leaked to the press, the thrust of them was that Donald Trump was under the throes of a foreign government. He was a Russian agent. Think of the national security implications of implying that your own president is a spy for a foreign country. Would that be tolerated in any normal country? You cannot let that go on. You can't have an FBI director doing these kinds of things and engaging these sorts of manipulations and lying to Congress about it and getting away with it.' " (Matt Taibbi On Jim Comey: 'Think Of The National Security Implications Of Implying That Your Own President Is A Spy For A Foreign Country! You Cannot Let That Go On' by Jim Hoft). See Barack Obama, promoting Marxism from the Oval Office, attempt a coup to overthrow President elect Donald Trump. See him lead a conspiracy involving intelligence agencies and national security officials to delegitimize Trump by alleging he was a Russian spy, was being assisted by Russia during the presidential campaign, and Russia through its interference stole the election. See them peddle an intelligence assessment they knew to be false in an attempt to sway the voters and rig the election: "Director of National Intelligence Tulsi Gabbard uncovered documents that were hidden for ten years that show Barack Obama was leading efforts to make it look like President Trump and Vladimir Putin stole the 2016 election from Hillary Clinton. Obama ordered his corrupt CIA Director John Brennan to create this fake assessment. This ties the former President Obama directly to the Trump-Russia hoax. Dirty Obama was leading the efforts to take down Trump. Barack Obama, who offered 'hope and change,' was actually a blight on our country's history. Jesse Watters reported: 'The Director of National Intelligence, Tulsi Gabbard, released a bombshell report today that shows a conspiracy by a sitting President, Barack Obama, and his intel agencies to sabotage the President elect, Donald Trump, brainwash the electorate, and undermine the legitimacy of an election. There is irrefutable evidence that detail how President Obama and his national security team directed the creation of an intelligence community assessment that they knew was false. They knew it would promote this contrived narrative that Russia interfered in the 2016 election to help President Trump win, selling it to the American people as though it were true. It wasn't. Gabbard got her hands on a House intel report that's been locked away in a CIA vault for almost a decade. Investigators spent over 2,000 hours looking into how the Russia hoax was born, interviewing 20 CIA and FBI officials. It turns out that the Obama administration doctored the intelligence to make it look like Putin and Trump stole the election.' " (DNI Director Tulsi Gabbard Uncovers Hidden Documents that Show Obama Doctored Intel To Make It Look Like Trump and Putin Stole Election by Jim Hoft). See the FBI and Justice Department steal the 2020 election by forcing social media companies to suppress news stories detailing Joe Biden's global influence peddling operation in place when he was vice president, evidence for which was contained in Hunter Biden's laptop. See the Democrat Party steal the 2020 election by video and GPS verified mail in ballot fraud involving millions of votes across the nation. See the Biden Administration condemn Trump's antiMarxist Make America Great Again movement as violent, criminal, terrorist, extremist and a threat to democracy. See it force social media companies to censor Trump, conservatives and libertarians. See the Democrat Party disbar Trump's lawyers, launch criminal and civil lawsuits against Trump throughout the nation, and impeach Trump twice, once when he was a private citizen, and seek to remove him from the 2024 ballot. See the Biden administration set up a "disinformation" agency to suppress antiMarxist speech. See Marxists condemn Trump as a dictator, fascist and national socialist over his defense of national borders, constitutional government and a color blind society, and attempt to assassinate him twice. See a transgender movement proclaim, in defiance of biological reality encoded in genes, that human sex is not fixed and immutable, and that males can change into females and females can change into males. See an environmentalist movement proclaim that human greenhouse gas emissions are creating a climate apocalypse, and the only to avoid this is by dismantling scientific and industrial civilization. See health care proclaimed to be a universal right which must be paid for by state taxation. See white males subjected to discrimination in employment and school admissions in the name of achieving diversity, equity and inclusion. See mandates imposed on human behavior, commands to obtain health insurance and commands to buy electric cars, in violation of the Due Process Clause of the Constitution. See Islam welcomed with open arms, from Texas to Michigan to Oregon to New York, and see sanctuary cities peddle multiculturalist subversion. See schools from kindergarten to college indoctrinate students in the rainbow ideologies of Marxism and their Frankfurt school "critical theory," critical of reason, science and the Enlightenment. See liberal values, individual rights and human essentialism sacrificed on the altar of gender, race, class, culture and sexual orientation politics. See a Christian Right movement, growing since the 1970s, composed of traditional Catholics and Evangelical Protestants, succeed in outlawing abortion. See the United States Supreme Court, in Dobbs vs Jackson Women's Health Organization, proclaim that abortion is not a constitutional right because the right to liberty, guaranteed in the Due Process Clauses in the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, does not say what it says. See the Court proclaim that the right to liberty does not mean the right to liberty, that the Court cannot recognize the logical implication of a right not recognized two hundred years ago, and that states have the power to declare a one cell zygote, an embryo and a fetus an actual human person with legal rights. See the Court proclaim that the Citizenship Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, stating that "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside," does not state what it states, and that unborn zygotes, embryos and fetuses can be granted legal rights. See a rising fascist movement spread its extremism across the nation. See it march into homes, neighborhoods, schools and businesses carrying the midnight torches of Jew hatred, Hitler worship, white power and an ideology of destruction of the Enlightenment: "Nick Fuentes is a 27 year old live streamer with openly antisemitic views. He has called Adolf Hitler both 'awesome' and 'right.' But he has become impossible for the Republican Party to banish, despite repeated attempts by some party leaders. This dynamic reveals how fringe ideologies operate differently today compared to the mid twentieth century, when institutional gatekeepers– political parties, law enforcement, the media–could more effectively contain extremist movements." (Nick Fuentes Is A Master Of Exploiting The Current Social Media Opportunities For Extremism, The Conversation, November 24, 2025). Religion. Causality is the process by which one event, called a cause, produces another event as its necessary effect. The notion of causality is indispensable for an understanding of the world because the actions of entities proceed from what they are, from their natures or essences, and do not occur by chance. Nothing in reality occurs without reason. The law of causality means that ideas and actions have consequences, and that evil premises will lead to terrifying conclusions. The dawn of the twentieth century saw the rise of a second religiousness in the West, rejecting the legacies of reason and the Enlightenment, and seeking to bring down a second Dark Ages. Worshiping a god called the Collective, the Marxist Left and its fascist offshoot, together with the Christian Right and Islam, worshiping the god of Abraham held to exist beyond existence, are America's and the West's four horsemen of the apocalypse.

MIGRANTS, MOSQUES, MINARETS AND MINNESOTA

It is known as the Land of 10,000 Lakes and the Land of Sky Blue Waters, reaching up to the border of Canada. Clean and fresh, like its grasslands, farmlands, prairies and forests. Clean and fresh, like its bright, cool skies and its bracing winter climate. This is Minnesota, and for decades it was a bastion of rugged, pioneer settler culture whose little houses of freedom were giants of the earth and beacons of hope across the nation. In the twenty first century, this land of moral purity and one hundred percent Americanism has been sullied beyond recognition by the operations of an enemy within. It has been sullied by a Marxist cultural and political establishment which has joined forces with global Islam in a campaign to overthrow the legacies of the Enlightenment. This Marxist-Muslim axis is sweeping the West in the age of religion, the final age of this storied culture, and it has struck Minnesota and transformed the state. In the twenty first century, the state whose official motto is the Star of the North has been sent into a permanent eclipse by two red stars hanging over the West, two red stars symbolizing the age of faith and force into which the West has descended, the red star of Marxism and the red star of Islam, and has become a sewer of subversion rolling back two hundred years of freedom. Minnesota Today. Look at Minnesota today and see sharia lawlessness imposed on the population. See Muslim militants take over homes, families, schools, offices and cities. See Muslims form a solid voting bloc for the Democrat Party, supporting its Marxist program to abolish constitutional government. See Somalis fraudulently enter and settle in the state, for one reason and one reason alone, to destroy its liberal institutions. See Somalis commit welfare fraud totaling billions of dollars. See Somalis steal billions of dollars from the hungry, the sick, the autistic, and ordinary families planning their future and seeking loans to buy homes. See the Marxist governor, Tim Waltz, persecute those who seek to stop the theft and whistleblowers who seek to expose it. See Somalis declare war on American values and the nation's Constitution, protecting freedom of speech and separating religion from the state. See Marxist judges set free a Muslim couple who stole millions of dollars from the state's Medicaid program. See Somalis peddle a witches' brew of tribal politics, Muslim politics, Jew hatred and the destruction of American, Anglo-Saxon, Enlightenment civilization: "President Trump flatly believes that Somali immigrants should pack their bags, their Sharia law, and go back to where they came from. Before criticizing the US, they should go home and fix their own country, according to the commander in chief. Instead, these Muslim immigrants are given freebies, the freedom to practice militant Islam while taking over entire cities, and the ability to bilk US taxpayers out of billions that were meant for hungry children. All of that is evidently just fine by Democrats as long as Somalis vote for them. His strong sentiment is shared by millions of Americans and opposed by radical, corrupt leftists. You can bet that Democrats will screech indefinitely over Trump’s comments concerning Somali immigrants. They will do so even though there is overwhelming evidence of widespread theft, embezzlement, migration fraud, and welfare cheating by many of the almost 100,000 government imported Somali migrants in the state of Minnesota. Under Democratic Governor Tim Walz’s watch in Minnesota, who enthusiastically welcomed Somali immigrants as voters to his state, an estimated $1 billion has been stolen from numerous welfare programs for autistic children, hungry children, COVID aid, homebuyers, and sick people. Not only did Walz turn a deaf ear to whistleblowers over it, but he also reportedly blocked and persecuted those who tried to stop the brazen theft, all in the name of politics. Somalis are tribal in nature. Combine that with militant Islam and Sharia law, and you have an untenable population in your midst. It is not compatible with American values or the Constitution in the least. Stealing from infidels is totally acceptable in their culture. Many Minnesotans have witnessed the widespread fraud in their state. But Democrat politicians have buried much of that evidence. From my previous article on Waltz: 'Walz is not the only leftist in his state complicit in the corruption, either. Judge Sarah West inexplicably overturned a guilty verdict against Abdifatah Yusuf, who was convicted in a $7.2 million fraud scheme that involved taxpayer money. His wife, Lul Ahmed, was also charged in the case back in June 2024. The Muslim couple was accused of stealing the money from the state's Medicaid program while running a home healthcare business that didn't have an office and operated for 'years out of a mailbox,' according to the Minnesota Attorney General's Office.' Even the jurors could not understand why the verdict was overturned, but most Americans can. It's politically motivated. The Trump administration and the Department of Homeland Security are increasing the crackdown on illegal immigrants in the state and investigating the massive fraud. Meanwhile, Democrats are downplaying the fraud and inexplicably defending the Somali leaders who committed the crimes. Naturally, Somali activists and Islamists are defending the thievery in Minnesota, and they are trying to portray the immigrants as the victims, not as the criminals they actually are. Despite that, there is overwhelming evidence that they have literally stolen money from starving children, but it's okay, they vote Democrat. Trump has no respect for Omar, nor should he have any. She puts Somalia first over America, and she represents the ideals and sentiments of Somali immigrants while pushing Islam and proclaiming hatred for Jews." (Trump Blasts Somali Immigrants: 'Their Country Stinks And We Don't Want Them In Our Country' by Terresa Monroe-Hamilton). Minnesota Today. Look at Minnesota today and see a figure of pure evil, a focal point of Marxism and Islam, lead a movement to overthrow the government. See Ilhan Omar settle in the nation illegally through immigration fraud. See her channel Adolf Hitler and lead a campaign to reopen his gas chambers for Jews. See her don the mantle of Grand Mufti of Jew hatred. See her condemn capitalism as a regime of oppression and victimhood of Marxists and Muslims. See her combine the Quran and Mein Kampf into a special one volume edition dripping with blood. See her lead a campaign to curse, fight and kill Jews wherever they are. See her brandish a sword, the sword of antisemitism, antizionism and antiEnlightenment, and seek to cut throats of the voices of liberal democracy. See her condemn as Islamophobic all those opposed to sharia theocracy and Muslim terror. See her traffic in Marxist and Muslim political pornography, blazing with the excitement of violence. See her peddle the raw filth of pure hate and lash out at religious and political tolerance. See her flood the streets, sewers and social media with the human bacteria of Marxism, Islam and national socialism, and place decent, tolerant, freedom loving, law abiding citizens in mortal danger: "At the terror tied CAIR [Council on American-Islamic Relations] conference, radical Representative Ilhan Omar (D-Minnesota)—accused of marrying her own brother to commit immigration fraud—stood on stage and spewed this filth: She compared Republicans' criticism of Islam to the way nazis spoke about Jews. The irony? Islam literally allied with Hitler to exterminate Jews. The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem worked hand in hand with the nazis. The Quran itself contains more Jew hatred than Mein Kampf—commanding Muslims to curse, fight, and kill Jews until the end of days. She pointed to Charlie Kirk's tweet —'Islam is the sword that will cut the throat of Western civilization'—and twisted this truthful statement into a 'call to attack Muslims.' She claimed that repeating Kirk's words 'puts every Muslim in danger'—while Kirk himself was slaughtered by a leftist for daring to criticize the left, which is working hand in hand with Islam to destroy the West. She bragged about her socalled Islamophobia Act to silence Americans—another step toward dragging our nation under sharia. She ordered Muslims to flood social media with her victimhood narrative." (Representative Ilhan Omar Spits On Charlie Kirk's Grave At Hamas Linked CAIR Conference by Amy Mekelburg). Minnesota Today. Look at Minnesota today and see Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents evicted from the state. See ordinances demand that local authorities shield illegal migrants from the reach of federal immigration law. See the state transformed into a sanctuary for Muslim terror and illegal immigrant communities seeking to instal caliphs into power. See a wall of separation constructed between illegal immigrants and the tribunals of justice seeking to apprehend them. See a parallel society composed of illegal migrants peddling hate and fanaticism allowed to permanently settle in the name of multiculturalism and a welcoming attitude: "On Wednesday's broadcast of NewsNation's The Hill, Minnesota State Representative Esther Agbaje (D) said that the idea behind the separation ordinances that are in place in Minneapolis and St Paul governing the ability of local authorities to cooperate with ICE 'is that everyone is welcome in Minnesota, particularly those from immigrant communities. We're not going to turn our doors away from people.' After host Blake Burman asked if local authorities in Minnesota should be helping ICE, Agbaje said, 'So, we have separation ordinances in both Minneapolis and St Paul. And so, both mayors have committed to upholding those separation ordinances.' Burman then asked, 'Would you call them sanctuary cities, or no?' Agbaje answered, 'We have separation ordinances. I think some people use that term sanctuary city, but the idea is that everyone is welcome in Minnesota, particularly those from immigrant communities. We're not going to turn our doors away from people.' " (Dem MN Representative: Idea Behind Separation Ordinances Is 'Everyone Is Welcome In Minnesota, Particularly Those from Immigrant Communities by Ian Hanchett). Minnesota Today. The Great Seal of Minnesota is the official emblem used to authenticate government documents and stationary. In addition to showing the state bird, the state grain, the state tree, and the North Star representing the state's motto, the Great Seal contains a phrase, Land Where The Water Reflects The Sky, from which the name of the state is derived. In the twenty first century, this hallowed phrase has become a dead letter. The water in Minnesota is no longer clear, reflecting the sky, but is black, revealing alien forces at work. Look into the water and see Muslim enclaves, Muslim sanctuaries, Muslim birth rates, Muslim crime, Muslim terror, Muslim recruitment, Muslim conspiracies, Muslim welfare fraud, Muslim mass migration and Muslim colonization. Look into the water and see a state, a nation and a civilization in free fall.

REDS EMPTY JAILS

September 15, 1933, Nuremberg, Germany. Massed crowds gather in the Zeppelinfeld and descend into a frenzy as two laws are announced. Known as the Nuremberg Laws, the Reich Citizenship Law and the Law for the Protection of German Blood and German Honor mark the onset of a wave of death and destruction against Jews and are opening shots of the Holocaust which would murder six million. The Reich Citizenship Law defines a Jew as someone with Jewish grandparents, and states that only those of Aryan blood can be citizens and enjoy legal rights. The Law for the Protection of German Blood and German Honor forbids marriage between Jews and nonJews, forbids sexual relations between Jews and nonJews, forbids the employment of German women under the age of 45 in Jewish households, and forbids Jews from displaying the national flag or Reich colors. In the history of state sanctioned hate and discrimination, the Nuremberg laws occupy the top ranks and are joined by laws enshrining class hate and class discrimination in the Communist Bloc. In the twenty first century, eighty years after the Third Reich crashed into smoking ruins and debris, the national socialists are back in business and have set up shop in the nations which defeated them in World War II. They have reappeared in a new form, marching with new colors, flags and uniforms, but peddling the same hate and discrimination as in yesteryear. They are the heirs and successors of Hitler and the communists, reappearing in the form of a multiheaded monster breathing the fires of gender, race, class, culture and sexual orientation politics, and they have advanced the terrifying logic of the tribal politics founded by Marx into a campaign to sweep away the liberal Enlightenment principle of equal protection and bring down criminal law more harshly against members of certain groups. The Marxists and new national socialists have enshrined collectivism in criminal jurisprudence, rolled back the progress of freedom and equality achieved over the centuries, and brought down a new Dark Ages of prehistoric tribal wars. The nations which fought Hitler and the communists are the nations today which have continued their regime of hate, discrimination and politicized justice, and are writing the closing pages of the history of the West. The West Today. Look at the West today and see the hallowed principle of equal justice under the law rejected in the name of a special, higher, tribal justice called equity. See racial, cultural and religious groups given preferential treatment in criminal sentencing. See white Christian criminal defendants given longer jail terms than other defendants. See nonwhite, nonChristian criminal defendants granted hearings to determine their sentence, hearings which can reduce or eliminate jail time, while white Christian defendants are granted no such hearings. See criminal defendants who are members of ethnic, cultural and religious minorities given less jail time or no jail time in comparison with other defendants. See white, male, Christian criminal defendants treated more harshly than other criminal defendants. See the prison population organized on a proportional basis, and the black population made to reflect the percentage of blacks in society, and blacks convicted of crimes not sent to jail if jailing them makes black population overrepresented. See a regime of race based sentencing, religious based sentencing and gender identity based sentencing sabotage centuries of liberal jurisprudence and hurl civilization into the dustbin of history. See the criminal justice system hijacked by Marxist identity politics and flown into the year zero: "Both the UK and Canada have now codified Orwellian 'equity' policies that dismantle the principle of equal justice under the law. These policies ensure that racial, cultural, and religious minorities receive preferential treatment in sentencing—while white males are explicitly excluded from such leniency. The British government is enshrining racial and religious bias into law by granting nonwhite, nonChristian individuals a presentencing hearing that can significantly reduce or even eliminate prison time for crimes that would otherwise warrant incarceration. From inside the British legislature:'[these policies] will make a custodial sentence less likely for and I quote, ‘Ethnic minorities, cultural minorities, and faith minority communities.' if you are anything other than a white male Christian, you are entitled to special presentencing considerations that will likely mitigate or erase prison time altogether—privileges that white male Christians do not receive. Meanwhile, Canada has taken a similar approach systematically dismantling equal application of the law under the guise of 'equity.' The Canada Black Justice Strategy is yet another ideological project that uses the usual communist buzzwords—'systemic discrimination,' 'antiblack racism,' and 'disadvantage'—to justify race based sentencing. From the Canadian Justice Department: 'Despite decades of work by black communities to reduce the injustices affecting black people, change has been too slow, and inequalities continue to exist in Canada. The UN Working Group Report also emphasized these inequalities. It included a specific recommendation to develop and implement a justice strategy to address the overrepresentation of black people in the criminal justice system.' Translation: The system must now manipulate sentencing to ensure certain groups receive lighter punishment—effectively legalizing systemic racial discrimination against white male Christians. This shift replaces equality—which treats all people fairly under the law—with equity—a race-based system that demands different outcomes based on skin color, or whatever criteria the part chooses to advantage at any given time based on victim politics. 'Equity' does not solve societal problems; it creates distrust, division, and resentment. If criminals are no longer punished based on their actions but rather on their race or religion, how can any citizen believe in the legitimacy of the justice system? Worse still, this ideology contradicts its own claims. The Canadian government insists that race is a social construct, yet race based sentencing policies require race to be an undeniable biological fact. If race were truly just a construct, then why implement policies that explicitly discriminate based on it? Even more absurd, the government has pushed gender ideology to the point where people can demand legal recognition as something they are biologically not—yet race, which is similarly immutable, is treated as a category requiring special intervention. No amount of plastic surgery made Michael Jackson Caucasian, and no amount of self identification made Rachel Dolezal black. Britain and Canada, once proud nations built on principles of fairness and justice, are now racing toward the same legal abyss at the same time. The goal is not justice—it is deliberate societal sabotage. The abolition of equal sentencing is not about creating a fairer system. It is about tearing the system down entirely, and forever." (Justice Is Dead: Canada And The UK Codify Racial Bias In Sentencing by Vlad Tepes). The West Today. Look at the West today and see criminal defendants of certain faiths and ethnicities treated more leniently than other defendants. See the establishment of two levels of justice, one level reserved for members of certain identity groups and the other level reserved for members of other identity groups, and the age old principle of equal protection under the law thrown to the winds. See judges ordered to obtain presentence reports for members of ethnic and faith minorities convicted of crimes, and for no other groups, and to give them lesser sentences based on those reports. See the principle of equal treatment before the law sacrificed on the altar of prehistoric tribalism, and the tribes of pregnant women, nonheterosexuals, nonwhites and nonChristians given special get out of jail free cards: "The Conservatives have called for the government to overrule planned changes which would make the ethnicity or faith of an offender a bigger factor when deciding whether to jail them. The Sentencing Council, which issued the new guidance for England and Wales, is independent and ministers do not currently have the power to override it. But shadow justice secretary Robert Jenrick told the BBC that if necessary, the law should be changed so the government could do so. Justice Secretary Shabana Mahmood has said she will write to the council to 'register my displeasure' and recommend reversing the change, after the Tories accused her of overseeing 'two tier justice.' That two tier phrase is especially highly charged. The government regards that accusation as politically toxic and is desperate to repel any suggestion of two tier justice. The updated sentencing guidance, which is due to come into force from April, places a greater emphasis on the need for presentence reports for judges. Presentence reports give judges details on the offender's background, motives and personal life before sentencing--then recommend a punishment and what would work best for rehabilitation. Magistrates and judges will be advised to get a presentence report before handing out punishment for someone of an ethnic or faith minority--alongside other groups such as young adults, abuse survivors and pregnant women. Jenrick said this was a 'blanket approach' that in many cases could lead to lesser sentences for certain groups. He argued this could undermine the principle of equality of treatment under the law. The shadow justice secretary told BBC Radio 4's Today program Mahmood had a representative at a meeting signing off the changes, who did not raise any objections. On Wednesday, Jenrick claimed the new guidelines were biased 'against straight white men.' 'Under Two Tier Keir [Starmer] our justice system is set to have an antiwhite and antiChristian bias,' he wrote on social media. The guidance also advises courts should avoid sending pregnant women, or those who have given birth in the last 12 months, to prison." (Call For Ministers To Overrule 'Two Tier' Sentencing Changes by Sam Francis, Becky Morton and Henry Zeffman). The West Today. Mass murder marches through the late modern age. It marches under the flags of Marx, Hitler, and their heirs and successors. It is marches into Enlightenment institutions and smashes their liberal protections of individual existence, rights, freedoms and dignity. Peddling hate and discrimination, it has granted members of selected gender, race, class, culture and sexual orientation groups special treatment in courts of law, and granted them a license to commit all manner of crimes. It has transformed judges into enforcers of a religion of the Collective which has sent the West into free fall.

EUROPE, WEIMAR, THE END

Even in the relatively stable years of 1924–9, it was claimed that 29 nazi activists had been killed by communists, while the communists themselves reported that 92 'workers' [communists] had been killed in clashes with 'fascists' [national socialists] from 1924 to 1930. Twenty six members of the Steel Helmets [paramilitary group] were said to have fallen in the fight against communism and 18 members of the Reichsbanner [Social Democrats] in various incidents of political violence from 1924 to 1928. These were only the most serious consequences of the continual fighting between rival paramilitary groups; the same sources counted injuries sustained in the battles in the thousands, many of them more serious than mere bruises or broken bones. (The Coming Of The Third Reich by Richard Evans). This is Weimar Germany, 1918 to 1933, a battlefield of private armies fighting for the control of civilization. A culture of political violence in which two rival gangs confront each other as they confront a common enemy. They march under flags sewn in the same factory. This factory is called Marxism and it sews the flags of tribal politics, the first such factory in the West, and its flags decorate Satan's dark festivities celebrating the overthrow of liberal democracy. In the twentieth century, the Marxist flag factory of the West began churning out two main kinds of flags, and in the twenty first century, these flags are circling, invading and occupying Europe, and numbering the days of its dying liberal democratic order. These flags worship the Marxist religion of the Collective, the religion which proclaims that the individual possesses no inherent rights, freedoms or dignity, and exists to serve something "bigger and greater than the self," in the words of Barack Obama, which something is the state or society. One line of flags worships a collective called the Class, while the other line worships a collective called the Race, and these two versions of Marxism, class Marxism and race Marxism, fought in the streets of Weimar Germany until one of them, the race Marxists, the fascists, the national socialists, achieved victory, put an end to Weimar, and transformed Germany into Hitler's Third Reich. In Europe in the twenty first century, the flags, movements and private armies which tore apart Weimar Germany are back in business and, together with a resurgent Christianity and Islam, are writing the final lines of the story of the West. In the twenty first century, Marxists, obeying the terrifying logic of tribalism, have created a multiheaded monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, while fascists have created new flags marked nationalism, populism and patriotism under which they march in their antiliberal crusade. Look at these flags and see one thousand years of European history draw to an end. Marxism. Look at Europe today and see a growing net of government regulations strangle human industry, growth and creativity. See human liberty trampled underfoot by the jackboots of business control and thought control. See the heavy hand of censorship brought down to enforce political correctness. See the suppression of antiMarxist political opposition. See policies of uncontrolled, unvetted mass migration settle enemy aliens from Islamic lands and erase the voices of freedom: "Continental Europe has been losing share of global GDP—down from 25 percent in 1990 to 14 percent today—partly owing to national and transnational regulations that undermine creativity and industriousness. But this economic decline is eclipsed by the real and more stark prospect of civilizational erasure. The larger issues facing Europe include activities of the European Union and other transnational bodies that undermine political liberty and sovereignty, migration policies that are transforming the continent and creating strife, censorship of free speech and suppression of political opposition. Should present trends continue, the continent will be unrecognizable in 20 years or less. As such, it is far from obvious whether certain European countries will have economies and militaries strong enough to remain reliable allies. Many of these nations are currently doubling down on their present path. We want Europe to remain European, to regain its civilizational self confidence, and to abandon its failed focus on regulatory suffocation." (National Security Strategy Of the United States Of America by Donald Trump, November 2025). Look at Europe today and see an ancient British institution, the right to a trial by a jury of one's peers, under attack. See freedom of speech under attack by a new regime of juryless star chambers. See freedom of speech under attack by government power unchecked by juries. See freedom of speech under attack by a regime of Marxist political justice. See jury trials abolished under the pretext of cutting costs but for the real reason of ensuring easy, judge rendered convictions of people accused of violating Marxist speech laws. See freedom of speech under attack by judges and prosecutors biased toward Marxism and unchecked by juries. See freedom of speech under attack by Marxist political prosecutions unchecked by juries. See the leading defensive wall protecting British liberty for 800 years, the right to a trial by a jury of one's peers, smashed by a juggernaut demanding lightning speed, single judge convictions for violations of laws prohibiting hate speech against Marxism and against its Muslim terror comrades in arms: "Freedom of speech will be under even greater threat if the British government is able to do away with jury trials for almost all cases because legal studies show a judge sitting alone is far more likely to convict defendants in free speech than juries, the Free Speech Union warns. The Free Speech Union warns the United Kingdom risks losing 'a check on governmental power and arbitrary justice' in 'the biggest assault on our liberties in 800 years' if the government is able to push ahead this week with plans said to be looking at abolishing the right to a trial by jury in all but the most serious cases, such as murder, rape, terrorism and others. For many other criminal cases where defendants face considerable jail time, the chance to have their guilt assessed by their peers hangs in the balance as Justice Secretary David Lammy looks for a cut cost way to clear a backlog in cases, and the Union warns freedom of expression cases are particularly threatened. In statistics cited by the FSU and reproduced by The Daily Telegraph, the Union said legal studies had found defendants in free speech cases are twice as likely to be acquitted by a jury than those who had sat in a court without. A statement by the Union said: 'according to legal studies, jury trials provide a more balanced outcome, with higher acquittal rates in cases that might otherwise be influenced heavily by prosecutorial bias. Moreover, juries often bring diverse perspectives which lead to fairer judgments compared to decisions by a single judge who might have biases.' Lord Toby Young, the founder of the FSU, added: 'Trial by jury is a bulwark of British liberty and if people charged with speech offenses are denied that right, they're more likely to be convicted.' The legal studies cited are said to have found that in cases over the past ten years, 16 per cent of defendants using freedom of speech as a defense were acquitted when brought before a magistrate's court, where the bench both heard evidence and decides the guilt. In Crown Courts where there are juries, however, 28 per cent were cleared. Even more strikingly, when looking at the most recent cases—pertinent evidence given the recent surge in socalled hate crime, speech, and political prosecutions—juries considering a not guilty plea for speech offences acquitted 75 per cent of the time in the past 12 months." ('Biggest Assault On Our Liberties In 800 Years': UK Abolishing Trial By Jury Threatens Freedom of Speech by Oliver JJ Lane). Fascism. Look at Europe today and see an ascendant fascist movement, reaching from Germany to Britain to France to Italy to Poland to Hungary to Slovakia, peddle its creed under flags stamped Patriots for Europe, Law and Justice, Alternative for Germany and European Conservatives and Reformists. See Marxists label fascists as members of the radical right when in actual fact they are members of the radical left, representing a variant of Marxism, substituting race for class as the agent of totalitarian power. See fascist brownshirts battle communist redshirts, the latter symbolized by Jean-Luc Melenchon's France Unbowed and Germany's Left Party and Sarah Wagenknecht Alliance, as liberal democratic parties vaporize beneath the blazing sun of a rersurgent extremism: "What would it mean for the continent's place in the world, should its political balance finally tip from the old mainstream to parties well beyond it? For that is the uneven, messy, but unmistakable direction of events as they stand. At the time of writing, parties of the radical right have topped recent polls of voting intention in the continent's four most populous democracies: Germany, Britain, France and Italy. Such parties already hold cabinet seats in six EU states, heading governments in Hungary, Italy and Slovakia. They are close to power (leading recent polls or propping up governments) in nine others. Following the European Parliament election in June 2024, the third and fourth largest groups in the EU legislature are the radical right Patriots for Europe and the European Conservatives and Reformists (ECR), respectively. Most recently Karol Nawrocki, backed by Poland's populist Law and Justice (PiS) party, narrowly won the country's presidential election on June 1st. The tilt away from the European mainstream is an overwhelmingly—but not exclusively—rightist phenomenon. In some places, it is part of a wider polarization hollowing out the old political center. For example, in France, the left-populist Jean-Luc Melenchon came within a couple of percentage points of the presidential run off votes in both 2017 and 2022. Germany's federal election in February 2025 saw the Left Party (a descendent of the East German communists) and the Sahra Wagenknecht Alliance (the BSW, a more socially conservative splinter from the left) obtain 14% of the vote combined." (Rise To The Challengers: Europe's Populist Parties And Its Foreign Policy Future by Jeremy Cliffe, Teresa Coratella, Camille Lons and Arturo Varvelli). A Shattered Continent. Europe 1000 AD. Clocks toll across the continent. They toll from turrets, sitting high atop churches. They toll at dawn, at noon, at sunset and at midnight, crying and roaring into the heavens, announcing the birth of a new culture called the West. Five centuries after Classical Greco-Roman culture collapsed into smoking ruins and debris, having committed suicide by its rejection of reason, the timeline of the West commenced. It has traversed ten centuries and recorded the smashing of the Dark Ages by the Enlightenment empires of reason, science, constitutional government, human flourishing and the rule of law. It recorded the onset of decline in the twentieth century, when the West, following in the footsteps of ancient Rome, committed suicide by the rejection of reason. It recorded the suicide of Germany in the death of the Weimar Republic in turf wars fought between rival Marxist gangs of class haters and race haters. In the twenty first century, it has recorded the resurgence of Weimar wars throughout Europe, and the engulfment of the continent in a conflagration. The timeline, the story of Europe and the story of the West, are burning up.

MONSTER ARCHITECT DIES

It rejects the world of mass and gravity and exalts pure space, striving, volume and verticality. Its pointed arch is a rocket ascending into infinity, while its stained glass windows destroy natural light inside. It is called Gothic architecture, and it is the first architectural style of the Faustian Western culture which emerged in Europe around 1000 AD. It embodies the unique Faustian exaltation of space and rejection of physical objects, and stands diametrically opposed to Classical Apollonian culture's orientation to the world of perception, common sense and human sanity. Its counterpart in Classical culture is the architecture of post and lintel, column and beam, support and load, which beautified the ancient landscape with expressions of reality. The Abbey of Saint Denis and the Greek Parthenon. Two embodiments of two cultures and two architectual styles, as diametrically opposed as Faust is to Apollo, as the world of darkness, space and mysticism is to the world of light, objects and reason. At the dawn of the twentieth century, Gothic architecture gave birth to Modern architecture and a new expression of Faustian mysticism emerged. Like its predecessor, Modern architecture is the architecture of pure form and pure space without functionality, and its pure volumes enclosed in glass, steel and concrete reject external reality as surely as the Gothic stone church and cathedral. The leading propaganda of Modern architecture is its famous proclamation that "form follows function," but the reality of the style is the diametrical opposite. The style popularized by Le Corbusier, Walter Gropius, Adolf Loos, Adolf Meyer, Frank Lloyd Wright and Mies van der Rohe is the style of pure form, and its dissolution of ceilings, partitions, boundaries and walls makes it the most nonfunctional, nonutilitarian architecture in history, a pure ideological statement and expression of religion, like its Gothic predecessor, which peddles the propaganda that its form follows its function in order to sell itself as a rational alternative to architecture featuring gratuitous embellishment and ornamentation. In place of gratuitous embellishment and ornamentation, Modern architecture offers an architecture of zero embellishment, zero ornamentation, zero function, zero utility and pure form, and takes its place as the heir and successor of Faustian Gothicism. In the mid twentieth century, Modern architecture itself gave birth to a style known as Postmodern architecture, which replaced the linear forms of Modernism with nonlinear forms in the name of rejecting the "austerity" and "lack of variety" in Modern architecture. Founded by Robert Venturi, Charles Moore and Peter Eisenman, Postmodern architecture is not in fact postmodern but is hypermodern, a development of Modernism in the direction of pure choice, chance and chaos, representing the terrifying end of the line of a pure formalist style which commenced in the only culture in which it could have commenced, in the perception defying, sanity defying, Faustian culture of the West. On December 5, 2025, one of the most influential architects of Postmodernism died, and left a legacy inspiring destruction, the destruction of beauty, order, and the art of designing and constructing buildings as old as civilization, which is writing the final lines of the Gothic and Modern styles. Frank Gehry. Look at the buildings designed by Frank Gehry and see an architecture of brazen mental disorder, bringing the story of architecture and the story of the West to a close. See mental disorder expressed in the form of buildings resembling crunched up pieces of paper. In the form of buildings resembling construction demolition sites. In the form of buildings resembling crash sites. In the form of buildings devoid of straight lines. In the form of buildings resembling dancing, howling, whirling Muslim votaries. In the form of buildings rejecting any form of mass, weight, gravity or logic. In the form of buildings marked by an arbitrary and unbounded maximalism guided by the slogan less is a bore. In the form of buildings marked by complexity without reason or control. In the form of buildings resembling flowing fish scales. In the form of buildings resembling sails swelled with air. In the form of buildings resembling giant metal strips. In the form of buildings resembling musical instruments. In the form of buildings resembling french fries. In the form of buildings resembling Modernist, Henry Moore type sculptures which are sculptures of nothing. In the form of buildings marked by ever increasing arbitrary forms expressing the principle of liberation from the tyranny and inhibitions of reason. In the form of buildings resembling dancers twirling and embracing. In the form of buildings resembling huge car crashes. In the form of buildings devoid of all quality, craft or skill. In the form of buildings marked by experimentation without rhyme or reason. In the form of buildings marked by random geometries. In the form of buildings marked by meaningless juxtapositions. In the form of buildings resembling people quarreling. In the form of buildings irregular, disorganized, without beginning and without end: "Frank Gehry once had a cameo in The Simpsons in which he designed buildings by scrunching up pieces of paper. There was a bit more to it than that, but from Prague to Panama City, his scrunched contours were instantly recognizable, expressed in an exuberant parade of buildings that cranked and slumped as if hit by a wrecking ball, or crashed and whirled like dervishes, defying laws of gravity and structural logic. Though Gehry, who has died aged 96, came of age in the era of modernism, it was as if he were physically incapable of drawing a straight line. In his prime, Gehry's architecture was a rebuff to modernist imperators such as Mies van der Rohe and his pofaced injunction, 'less is more.' The American postmodern theorist and architect Robert Venturi turned it on its head, quipping 'less is a bore.' It summed up the maximalist Gehry perfectly. As the millennium loomed, he changed the game with his 1997 design for an outpost of the Guggenheim modern art empire in the unfashionable northern Spanish city of Bilbao. Grappling with postindustrial decline, its unlikely recovery was catalyzed by a building of exhilarating complexity sheathed in an epidermis of 33,000 wafer thin sheets of titanium that shimmered like rippling fish scales. With gallery spaces as expressive as the works they were designed to house, this was no neutral backdrop for art. Bilbao was followed by the 2003 Walt Disney concert hall in Gehry's adopted home town of Los Angeles, conceived as a clutch of stainless steel clad volumes resembling billowing sails or giant metal shavings. He had urged his client to use stone, but they wanted a Bilbao. The timber lined auditorium was warm and intimate, akin to being inside a musical instrument. Even the organ bore Gehry's imprimatur, its scrum of pipes like a box of exploding french fries. The dynamic forms of his buildings were achieved through an ingenious yet laborious modus operandi involving the creation, in the first instance, of handbuilt models. These were then digitized using computer software capable of modelling complex curves, originally designed for use in the aerospace industry. Sculpture, in effect, became architecture, always striving for effect. Anything was possible. As computers liberated form making, architecture became increasingly–and often preposterously–uninhibited. Throughout the 90s and 00s, architects and their patrons strove to outdo each other, with Gehry leading the charge, through projects such as the Dancing House in Prague, nicknamed 'Fred and Ginger,' where a pair of disparate towers conjoin in a twirling, balletic embrace, and the Jay Pritzker pavilion in Chicago's Millennium Park, an outdoor amphitheater framed by a halo of torqued stainless steel ribbons. Seattle's over egged Experience Music Project (since 2016 known as the Museum of Pop Culture) proved a wincing disappointment, while the 2014 Fondation Louis Vuitton in Paris, designed to accommodate the collection of French business magnate and art collector Bernard Arnault, is a bloated car crash, with some appallingly shoddy workmanship. LA provided the scope and momentum for experimentation as Gehry gradually found his rhythm in a frontier town of sprawl and adhocism. Revelling in exaggerated geometries and juxtapositions, a 1980 house for filmmaker Jane Spiller featured a plywood interior encased in a carapace of corrugated metal.

Where the timber sporadically broke through the external walls 'the house felt like the architectural equivalent of a couple quarrelling in the kitchen,' wrote the American architecture critic Nicolai Ouroussoff." (Frank Gehry: Maximalist Master Who Created Instant Icons Like The Bilbao Guggenheim by Catherine Slessor). Frank Gehry. Look at the buildings designed by Frank Gehry and see an architecture of brazen mental disorder expressed in the form of buildings marked by avantgardism. In the form of buildings resembling the wind. In the form of buildings marked by nonconstruction, anticonstruction and deconstruction. In the form of buildings marked by fragmentation, distortion, conflict and contradiction. In the form of buildings devoid of symmetries and axes. In the form of buildings marked by arbitrary curves and shapes. In the form of buildings rejecting reason in the name of refinement, sophistication and adventure. In the form of buildings embodying the noise, the nonmelodies, the randomnicity, the improvisation and the civilizational degeneration played by the saxophones of jazz: "Frank Gehry, one of the most influential architects of the last century, has died aged 96. Gehry was acclaimed for his avant garde, experimental style of architecture. His titanium Later in his career, Gehry used 3D modelling similar to that used by aerospace engineers to shape windy buildings, a practice largely avoided by other architects because of the complexity and costliness of construction. covered design of the Guggenheim Museum in Bilbao, Spain, catapulted him to fame in 1997. After starting his own firm, he broke from traditional architectural principles of symmetry, using unconventional geometric shapes and unfinished materials in a style now known as deconstructivism. Through blending unexpected materials and sheathing buildings in stainless steel to create curvy exteriors, Gehry created buildings that took on arresting sculptural shapes. In 1989, at the age of 60, Gehry was awarded the industry's top accolade, the Pritzker Architecture prize, for lifetime achievement. The Pritzker jury said his work possessed a 'highly refined, sophisticated and adventurous esthetic.' 'His designs, if compared to American music, could best be likened to Jazz, replete with improvisation and a lively unpredictable spirit.' the panel said at the time." (Legendary Architect Frank Gehry Dies Aged 96 by Sakshi Venkatraman and Harry Sekulich). Frank Gehry. In cathedrals, monasteries and town squares throughout Europe, bells in high towers began ringing out around 1000 AD. They were heard at great distances and announced the emergence of a new culture called the West. They have been ringing out now for over a thousand years, have rung out the civilizational apex called the Enlightenment, and have been ringing out civilizational decline and fall commencing in the twentieth century. Since the 1960s, the funeral bells of the West have been ringing out over the wastelands, waste buckets and broken worlds of Frank Gehry's Postmodern architecture.

GERMANY GASSES FREE SPEECH

The Berlin Blue residue is still visible on the dark, dank walls. The residue was formed by reactions of the Zyklon B gas which claimed 6000 victims per day. The chamber was part of a complex which would murder 6,000,000 Jews as enemies of the Aryan race during World War II. This chamber is Auschwitz, it is Majdanek, it is the factory mass producing death manned by the Third Reich enforcing its ideology of hate. Commemorated in museums and memorials throughout the world, the Holocaust is among the preeminent symbols of human evil and one more terrifying expression of what happens when a sewer religion is given the reins of state power. This sewer religion is known as Marxism, and the German holocaust, the Soviet holocaust, the Chinese holocaust and the Cambodian holocausr, collectively claiming the lives of 100 million people, were Marxist class wars aimed at the producers of wealth and value in society, condemned by the executioners as capitalists and the bourgeois. In Germany and German occupied lands, Jews were murdered because they represented everything Hitler's neoMarxists hated and feared, the world of liberal freedom and the Enlightenment, and were murdered as geldjuden and geldsacke, as "moneyJews" and "moneybags." Eighty years after the Third Reich crashed into the smoking ruins and debris of unconditional surrender, it has risen from the grave and taken over the German establishment. It appears in a different form but has effected the same cancellation of freedom as in yesteryear. The implacable, heel clicking tones heard today are not those of Hitler's jackboots but those of original Marxism, the redshirts which fought Hitler's brownshirts on the streets of Weimar, and in the twenty first century, they are back in business in a big way, and have set up a regime of censorship rivaling that of the Third Reich. Germany Today. Look at Germany today and see a Marxist suppression of speech rendering Germany's official postwar commitment to freedom null and void. See libraries containing books by conservatives, libertarians and rightwing defenders of freedom shut down. See books by prominent freedom authors, from Edmund Burke to Roger Scruton, consigned to digital nonexistence. See online library networks banish works by antiMarxists. See works by the opponents of Marxist gender, race, class, ethnicity, culture and sexual orientation politics rendered invisible on the internet. See the nation's freedom scene, lectures, talks, events and podcasts offered by antiMarxists, canceled. See privately funded antiMarxist organizations suppressed. See rightwing freedom enterprises suppressed. See members of academic freedom circles dismissed. See the opponents of transgenderism, the religion proclaiming that human sex chromosomes, discovered in 1905 by Nettie Stevens and Edmund Wilson, do not in fact exist and human gender can be changed, condemned as transphobic and suppressed. See conservative and libertarian ideas condemned as an infection which must be contained, quarantined, hidden and eliminated in order to render society safe. See antiMarxist students expelled from universities. See speech offensive to Marxists deplatformed. See antiMarxist speech condemned as a campus security risk. See antiMarxist positions suppressed as too controversial. See the opponents of covid 19 shut downs, lock downs, forced vaccinations and forced social distancing suppressed. See academics in support of zionism, Israel and the West, and opposed to global Islam and Hamas terror, canceled. See academics opposed to antisemitism and Islamic jihad suppressed as racists and threats to public safety: "In Berlin’s Charlottenburg district, there is an unusual library. The Library of Conservatism (Bibliothek des Konservatismus or BdK) was founded in 2012, based on Caspar von Schrenck-Notzing’s extensive private collection of rightwing and libertarian nonfiction books. Today, it has a catalogue of roughly 35,000 titles from German and European writers—including early prints from authors such as Roger Scruton, Edmund Burke, Ernst Junger, and Carl Schmitt. Soon, though, none of these titles will be accessible to many German academics and researchers. Without any explanation, the BdK is being thrown out of the Gemeinsamer Bibliotheksverbund (GBV), one of the largest library networks in the country. The library will be made functionally invisible. Library director Wolfgang Fenske, speaking to Junge Freiheit, described this as 'an existential threat,' explaining that the BdK cannot store data and create its own searchable catalogue: 'Above a certain size, virtually all academic libraries are affiliated with a library network. This network maintains a kind of master data record for each book title. Every library that holds a book in the relevant edition attaches its local data record—which includes, among other things, the book’s call number—to this master data record of the library network.' Fenske stressed that, until the library was handed the termination notice this summer, relations with the GBV were perfectly cordial. He believes, however, that this sudden decision to sever ties with the BdK could be the decision of the GBV’s new director, Regine Stein, who was appointed last October. Given the BdK’s rightwing stance, it is not unreasonable to suspect that a political motive was at play here. The BdK is not just a library, but also an integral part of Germany’s conservative scene. It hosts talks and events, has its own podcast, and conducts research. And, unlike many leftwing organizations, it achieves all this while being completely privately funded. 'We place great importance on being independent from the state, individual parties or donors,' Fenske told Junge Freiheit. But clearly, even private funding won’t save rightwing enterprises from the cancel culture that still pervades Germany, particularly in academic circles. According to a new survey, published this week, a significant portion of German students remain comfortable with deplatforming people whose ideas they disagree with. In particular, one in five said they would be willing to restrict speech for positions labelled 'conservative,' far more than left leaning ones. Right wing views are still considered ‘dangerous’ for many German students, and therefore viewed as fair game when it comes to shutting down talks, firing professors, or getting fellow students expelled. Like the BdK, right wing and conservative ideas must be quarantined and hidden away from public view, lest they breach containment and ‘infect’ the wider population. We see this all the time on university campuses, where rigorous debate has been smothered by an obsession with keeping students ‘safe.’ Back in 2022, Humboldt University in Berlin cancelled a lecture by biologist Marie-Luised Vollbrecht on why, in biological terms, there are only two sexes, after activists denounced her as 'transphobic' and threatened protests. The talk was dropped from the Long Night of Science program on security grounds—the university did not feel it could provide adequate safety measures in light of the planned demonstrations, both for and against Vollbrecht’s talk. She was silenced not because her ideas were unscientific or unlawful, but because some students were offended by them. The talk was thankfully rescheduled, but the university had to employ security checks. Or look at the case of political scientist Ulrike Guerot. In 2023, the University of Bonn sacked her, ostensibly over claims of plagiarism. But it is hard to ignore the fact that Guerot was also an outspoken critic of Germany’s COVID-19 restrictions. She believes that her firing was motivated by her controversial positions on the topics, and has argued that it was 'legally, as well as politically, dubious.' From the university’s perspective, a plagiarism scandal would certainly have been a convenient excuse to get rid of a politically controversial academic. Since Hamas’s massacre in Israel on October 7, 2023, zionist or Israeli academics are now the target for many on campus cancellations. At Leipzig University in 2024, a planned lecture by the Israeli historian Benny Morris, titled The 1948 War and Jihad and organized as part of a series on antisemitism, was abruptly dropped after student groups denounced him as a racist and threatened protests. The university cancelled the talks on security grounds, as students led protests against Morris’s presence on campus." (Deleting The Right: A Digital Book Burning In Berlin by Lauren Smith). Germany Today. Look at Germany today and see Chancellor Friedrich Merz file criminal complaints against all those calling him what he is, calling him in slang terms a contemptible, authoritarian politician, because of his support for political correctness and his opposition to free speech. See him break all records of filing complaints punishing free speech, being the most prolific political speech suppressor in German postwar history. See prosecutors' offices, interior ministries and police raids target as extremist and hate mongers all those publicly criticizing Merz, and ransack their homes, confiscate their mobile phones, seal them off from all contact with the outside world, jeopardize their health, safety and well being, and thrown them into jail: "German Chancellor Friedrich Merz has reportedly filed hundreds of criminal complaints against members of the public for insulting him during his tenure as a politician. According to research conducted by the Welt am Sonntag newspaper, Merz is 'one of the most sensitive politicians in the history' of the German republic. Die Welt’s Sunday paper reported that during his time as a member of parliament, Merz filed criminal complaints against citizens for calling him names such as 'little nazi,' 'asshole' among others. The paper said that documents from a law firm commissioned by Merz to file such complaints revealed that the 'little nazi' and 'filthy drunken' comments resulted in police searches, with the later ultimately being found to have been an unlawful search. In the 'little nazi' case, police seized the phone of an elderly and physically disabled woman, who is bound to a wheelchair. The paper noted that by doing so, police hindered her ability to communicate with her doctors. Given Germany’s strict rules against insulting politicians, it is not always necessary for the individual politician to file a criminal complaint. Indeed, one such case in which a commenter called Merz an 'asshole,' was launched by the Berlin prosecutor’s office after being tipped off by the group Hesse Against Hate, a project launched by the local interior ministry in the state of Hesse. The case is currently being investigated as a potential 'extremist' politically motivated crime." (German Chancellor Merz Filed Hundreds Of Criminal Complaints Over Insults From Citizens: Report by Kurt Zindulka). Germany Today. May 1933, Berlin, the Opernplatz. Spotlights compete with flames and make this center of the city blaze like the sun. These are the flames of books burning, 20,000 of them, consigned to destruction because they were not politically correct, were not written by Jewish authors or were otherwise "unGerman." Newsreels recorded the book burning and sparked international outrage. In Germany in the twenty first century, books have started burning again and free speech is again on fire. The flames of a Marxist censorship regime are spreading across the nation and incinerating the voices of dissent. A new populism of Marxist thought control is consuming the postwar Federal Republic.

MARXIST MANIA MURDERS FREE SPEECH

It invented free speech in modern times. Banishing the Dark Ages and the tyranny of the Catholic Church, whose Roman Inquisition and List of Prohibited Books banned the works of Galileo, Voltaire and John Locke, the Enlightenment was a beacon of the West which shined the light of freedom across the world and gave hope to the oppressed. Listen to the voices of the Enlightenment and hear the bells of free speech toll and lift up Europe to the summit of spiritual glory. Listen to John Milton: "Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties." (Areopagitica). Listen to Anders Chydenius: "No evidence should be needed that a certain freedom of writing and printing is one of the strongest bulwarks of a free organization of the state, as, without it, the parliament would not have sufficient information for the drafting of good laws, and those dispensing justice would not be monitored, nor would the subjects know the requirements of the law, the limits of the rights of government, and their responsibilities. Education and ethical conduct would be crushed; coarseness in thought, speech, and manners would prevail, and dimness would darken the entire sky of our freedom in a few years." (Helsingen Sanomat: International Edition). Listen to the First Amendment to the United States Constitution: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances." Listen to John Stuart Mill: "There ought to exist the fullest liberty of professing and discussing, as a matter of ethical conviction, any doctrine, however immoral it may be considered." (On Liberty). Listen to George Orwell: "If liberty means anything at all, it means the right to tell people what they do not want to hear." (George Orwell Statue, BBC headquarters). In the twenty first century, the right of free speech is under attack in the West as it has never been under attack before, facing an onslaught of a new religiousness, a new Dark Ages, and its days of survival are numbered. Over the past 125 years since the dawn of the twentieth century, the West has travelled full circle and returned to its first age, the age of religion, and this rejection of reason has led to a movement of suppression of free speech which has sent the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. The resurgence of religion and the onset of a new Dark Ages is the telltale symptom of civilizational sickness, a symptom which has reared its head throughout history and left graveyards of civilizations in its wake. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the actors have changed from the original Dark Ages but the play and the tragedy have remained the same. The new ruling religion is a modern version of Christianity called Marxism, and worshiping a new god called the Collective in place of the Christian God in heaven, it has crushed the Western life force of free speech with the jackboots of Marxist narratives, censorship and state propaganda. Look at the violations of free speech committed by nations of the former free world and see a timeline of treason which is leading the West into its doom. Look at the violations of the freedom to express one's ideas and opinions without fear of legal sanction, and see the imposition of a multiheaded Marxist monster, a neoMarxist religion of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics which emerged in the twentieth century, render the West unrecognizable. Item. Look at the West today and see people jailed for opposing Marxist gender ideology which rejects one hundred years of science and fact, reaching back to the discoveries of Nettie Stevens and Edmund Wilson, establishing that human gender is determined by chromosomes and is fixed and immutable. See people jailed for opposing the new religion of transgenderism and for refusing to use the preferred pronouns of psychotics proclaiming that human gender can be changed by human intervention. See the heavy hand of persecution, dismissal, disciplinary action and time behind bars brought to bear on the voices of common sense and human sanity: "It's a series of attacks that have targeted Enoch Burke, a school teacher in Ireland, for three years already, and it's being elevated now to the point authorities have ordered him to be jailed over the Christmas holiday over his adherence to science and fact. The fight is over orders from officials at his school to lie, by using they/them pronouns for a student who claims to be transgender. That, of course, defies science, as being male or female is embedded in humans down to the DNA level, and does not change. Live Action's Lila Rose commented on the orders: 'Ireland is no longer free. Ireland teacher Enoch Burke will spend Christmas in jail after refusing to use preferred pronouns for a transidentifying student, citing his religious beliefs. The school then initiated a disciplinary process, preventing him from teaching. After multiple attempts to fight what he believed was religious persecution, Enoch was arrested. Pray for Enoch and his family.' " ('500 Days In Prison': Teacher Jailed For Christmas Because He Won't Submit To 'Pronoun' Ideology by Bob Unruh). Item. Look at the West today and see people jailed for opposing Muslim mass migration and the settlement of human animals. See those opposed to Marxism and Islam denied the right to speak out, placed in a prisoner's dock, and denied the right to a fair trial. See antiMarxist, antMuslim messages, platforms and discontent outlawed and liberal voices, the voices of freedom in the West, taken political prisoner: "Lucy Connolly, a British housewife who was handed a hefty prison sentence for sending a Tweet, is in talks with the Trump administration and is taking legal advice to sue over the circumstances of her incarceration, she said after being released from prison. A British woman who was handed a 31 month prison sentence for publishing a message on the X/Twitter platform in the wake of the Southport child slayings has been released from jail and has described what she calls deliberate mistreatment characterized by prison governors being 'leaned on' in accordance with her de facto status as a political prisoner. 42 year old mother Lucy Connolly was released from prison on Thursday. She spoke to Daily Telegraph journalist Allison Pearson, who police have also harassed for writing things online, and broadcaster Dan Wootton to describe her experience and next steps. Stating she believes the government selected her to set an example to discourage further discontent, Connolly decried 'two tier justice,' telling Pearson she 'absolutely' thinks she was 'Keir Starmer's political prisoner' and that she was coerced out of getting a fair trial." ('Political Prisoner' Lucy Connolly To Meet With Trump Administration, Says She Will Sue UK Police by Oliver JJ Lane). Item. Look at the West today and see violations of free speech make a mockery of the West's own charters of fundamental rights. See voices speaking truth to the Marxist establishment silenced by courts, commissions and intergovernmental authorities. See antiMarxist views on online platforms flagged as illegal content and dangerous disinformation. See the digital public square invaded by stormtroopers marching under the banners of Marxist identity politics. See governments force social media platforms to remove antiMarxist content on pain of being fined out of existence. See civilized ambassadors, NGOs and members of legislatures throughout the world filled with outrage at efforts to silence truth online by European Union laws, directives, regulations, crusading activists and coordinating bodies. See a global online censorship regime reach into every sector of cyberspace and every nation on earth, and present the greatest threat to free speech in the history of the West: "The European Commission has ignored substantive free speech concerns from experts from around the world in its first formal report on the Digital Services Act (DSA), published yesterday. The review, mandated by Article 91 of the DSA itself, came amidst widespread international outcry that the legislation violates freedom of expression, including from major online platforms, European civil society, the House Judiciary Committee of the US Congress, the US Ambassador to the EU, and others. In September, more than 50 European NGO's stressed that the broad terms of 'systemic risks,' 'disinformation,' and 'illegal content,' coupled with the activist role of 'trusted flaggers' might violate freedom of expression and information under Article 11 of the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights. Last month, over 100 free speech warned about global online censorship under the DSA, in a letter to the Commission coordinated by ADF [Alliance Defending Freedom] international. The free speech experts' letter called on the Commission to address these free speech concerns in its review of the DSA, which was published yesterday, but the Commission has now failed to do so in its report. Instead, the report reiterates the Commission's position that the DSA is 'content agnostic' and therefore beyond free speech scrutiny. This stance is at odds with the DSA's real world enforcement, which pressures platforms to remove content to avoid punishment from the EU, which can result in fines of up to 6% of global revenue. The report provides no substantive response to the concerns around censorship by proxy, overreach, or the DSA's extraterritorial effects, nor does it assess the DSA under the EU Charter's free speech protections, as requested by experts and NGOs. More alarmingly, the Commission further signals its intention to deepen and tighten DSA related coordination, calling for stronger interauthority cooperation, joint guidance, and even potential 'one stop shop' mechanisms across the EU, a development that risks amplifying existing free speech concerns rather than addressing them. " (EU Ignores Free Speech Concerns In Review Of Censorial Digital Services Act, Alliance Defending Freedom, November 20, 2025). Item. In the twenty first century, the graveyard of failed civilizations contains the latest tombstone. It is the tombstone of the West and on it is inscribed the cause of death: The return of religion, centuries after the first Dark Ages, a religion now called Marxism. The vice grip of this new religion, crushing every sector of society. Its Boards of Disinformation deplatforming antiMarxist ideas. Its ruthless censorship of dissent, invading the precincts of thought and stamping out the human mind.

THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SCIENCE REVIEW EDITED BY JULIUS STREICHER

In a translated article published during the ongoing Nuremburg trials in the evening newspaper Expressen in October 1946, Joseph Maier, who worked as an interpreter, and Sender Jaari, who worked for the Briefing and Research Section of the US Army Interrogation Division, described a number of high ranking nazi officials, including SS Obergruppenführer Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Chief of the Reich Main Security Office, and Julius Streicher, founder and publisher of the antisemitic newspaper Der Stürmer, as sexually deviant individuals–'animals that belonged to the jungle rather than human civilization. Streicher was without a doubt the dirtiest man in Nuremberg. His collection of pornographic literature was the largest we have ever seen.' (The Transnational Origin Of Illicit Porn Films In The Interwar And War Years by Tommy Gustafsson). Julius Streicher. Founder of the most notorious popular publication in modern times, the virulent, violent, pornographic journal of Jew hate called Der Sturmer. Published in Nuremberg from 1923 to 1945, Streicher's tabloid of poison made him a multimillionaire; its circulation reached across Germany, Argentina, Brazil, Canada and America; and it galvanized a half a million human bacteria every week with graphic depictions of Jews and demands for their extermination. In the twenty first century, the specter of Julius Streicher and his Der Sturmer haunt the literary and academic worlds, terrifying civilized people with the black tidings that the sewers of the Marxist religion of identity politics, the religion which spawned a algae bloom in Germany called national socialism, a bloom substituting the Aryan race for the original proletarian class as the object of worship, are alive and well and churning out books and publications by the thousands far and wide. America's premier journal of political science, peer reviewed and published quarterly by the American Political Science Association since 1906, abstracted in the Social Sciences Citation Index, the International Bibliography of Periodical Literature and the International Bibliography of Periodical Literarure, and among the most cited and influential journals of political science in the world, the American Political Science Review has been infected by the Marxist sewer in the twenty first century and is unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, this top tier research publication has descended into the lowest rungs of rabble rousing and become a street lamp of agitation and propaganda. Its outward guise is academic but its essence is Julius Streicher, and its twenty first century transformation shows the relentless advance of Marxism, the late modern sewer flowing into every sector of society. Der Sturmer. The new American Political Science Review proclaims that a progressive political science journal is edited by a Feminist Collective which hates and discriminates against men. It peddles the politics of race, ethnicity and sexuality. It promotes discrimination on the basis of race and sex in the name of achieving diversity and inclusion, and as the highest expression of fairness and equity. It sacrifices academic scholarship on the altar of Marxist identity politics. It promotes a national socialist style ideology of black supremacy called Black Lives Matter. It condemns capitalism as an endless assault of truncheons, tear gas, rubber bullets and flash grenades against blacks. It promotes lawless assertions of power by black politicians. It condemns capitalism as a regime of white power, white domination, white ideology, white politics, white violence and white injustice. It condemns capitalism as a regime of mass imprisonment of blacks. It condemns capitalism as a regime of police brutality against blacks. It condemns capitalism as a white man's religion. It condemns capitalism as a regime of impoverishment of blacks and women. It condemns capitalism as a regime consigning blacks and women to the misery of disease and disability. It condemns capitalism as a regime of white populism. It condemns capitalism as a cesspool of political corruption. It condemns capitalism as a regime of racism, sexism, heterosexism, ableism and settler colonialism. It rejects the Enlightenment notions of human essentialism, universalism and individual rights in favor of Marxist identity categories such as race and gender. It condemn capitalism as a system of oppression of women, nonwhites and the poor. It rejects the standard of scholarly merit and excellence in the selection of authors and only publishes papers written by black and women Marxists. Its editorial board is selected, not on the basis of scholarly merit or excellence, but on the basis of race, sex and politics, and is a board of black, female, Marxist experts, methodologists, and thought police. It is governed by an editorial vision blazing with the fever of primitive tribalism. Marching under midnight national socialist style slogans such as representational diversity, national origin and gender and racial identities, a progressive political science journal features authors, reviewers and citations advocating for the overthrow of Enlightenment institutions: "On June 1, 2020, the Feminist Collective began their four year term as the editors of the APSR. The team celebrated its 'unprecedented' status as an 'all woman' editorial group for a political science journal. The editors further noted: Our team is also diverse along lines of race, ethnicity, and sexuality, and several of us bring research expertise in these areas to the table. As scholars who engage these topics in our research and who have also worked to increase equity and diversity in the profession and at our own institutions, we believe that our team is well situated to attract and critically evaluate the best work in these areas. The Feminist Collective thus began its tenure by fully committing to a DEI agenda that pushed 'equity' over sound scholarship. The editorial team displayed this commitment in the very first APSR issue published under its leadership in November 2020. The editors dramatically observed that June 1, 2020—the day they took control of the APSR—'was a day marked by Black Lives Matter protests throughout the United States and much of the world following the killing of George Floyd.' On the same day, 'the American president [Donald Trump] authorized the use of tear gas, rubber bullets and flash grenades to disperse the peaceful crowd that had assembled near the White House so that he could pose for photographs at St John’s Episcopal Church, holding a Bible.' The editors completed their racially charged depiction of the scene by noting that 'Muriel Bowser—the black woman mayor of the District of Columbia, whose residents have no representation in the US legislature—planned her response to the president’s bold assertion of power.' These incidents, the editors explained, reflected the reasons that the Feminist Collective sought to take over the APSR. 'Political scientists need to study power, domination, ideology, political violence, and structural injustice,' they declared. 'We need to study policing and the carceral state, racialized and gendered health and economic inequalities, populism, the political aspects of religion, and political corruption.' A blog post published by the editorial team in July 2020 was even more explicit. 'If the discipline [political science] is to better reflect the diversity of society,' the editors pronounced, 'then we need to actively dismantle the institutionalized racism, sexism, heterosexism, ableism, and settler colonialism that continue to characterize and structure it.' In May 2021, the editors reiterated this commitment to DEI. They 'hoped to see growth in submissions focused on pressing political problems, including structural inequalities and the exercise of power by oppressed people, including submissions from scholars who themselves identify as members of marginalized communities.' The message could not have been clearer. The APSR would now favor research that foregrounded identity categories like race and gender and advanced leftist narratives of systemic oppression. Throughout their tenure, the editors repeatedly commended themselves for increasing the number of articles that focused on race, gender, and sexuality. In their first annual report, the Feminist Collective celebrated the news that 'the proportion of accepted articles that focus on Race, Ethnicity and Politics' was the largest in recent history. In 2023, during the latter half of the editors' term, they reported that 'while the three previous [editorial] teams published an average of 25 articles about race, ethnicity, and politics over the course of their full terms, we have already accepted 51 such articles.' Nor did the editors merely encourage research that explored identity and oppression. In keeping with the promise in their proposal to discriminate on the basis of race and sex, they repeatedly examined the race and sex of the authors who submitted work to the APSR and the staff involved in soliciting and reviewing submissions. For a publication allegedly devoted to scholarly excellence and employing a blind peer review process, the race and sex of authors and staff should not matter, but the Feminist Collective repeatedly raised the salience of 'identity.' One of the principles of the Feminist Collective's 'editorial vision' was 'representational diversity.' The Feminist Collective formed a 'large, representative Editorial Board' composed of over 100 political scientists to advise the editorial team. The scholars on this board represented a great 'diversity' of 'gender and racial identities.' The Feminist Collective proudly produced charts reporting the gender identity and race/ethnicity of board members. Under the chart for gender identity, the editorial team noted, 'Although we did not deliberately select board members for their gender, we are pleased that our board overrepresents women in the association, while roughly matching the proportion of women entering graduate school. We are particularly pleased by the number of women of color and women methodologists on our board.' " (Peer Review Gone Wild: Flagship Political Science Journal Shows How Academic Gatekeepers Promote Ideology Over Scholarship by Timothy Minella). Der Sturmer. Germany, 1933 to 1945. The streets are dotted with people publicly reading pages of Der Sturmer. Galvanized by hate, they read under billboards proclaiming With The Attacker against the Jews and The Jews are our misfortune. In the twenty first century, eighy years after Julius Streicher was hanged at Nuremberg for crimes against humanity, the pages of his pornographic hate sheet have reappeared in an academic gloss in the American Political Science Review. In this new edition, the specific names and ideology have changed from the original, substituting an everexpanding universe of hate objects, substituting whites, ethnic Europeans, males, heterosexuals, nontransgenders and successful people for Hitler's Jews, but the terrifying theme has remained the same. The theme is Marxist inspired extermination and the killing of millions.

DEMOCRAT PARTY: MARXIST MAINSTREAM OF AMERICA

Scene One: A Soviet parade between 1929 and 1934 under the banners We will liquidate the kulaks as a class and All to the struggle against the wreckers of agriculture. Scene Two: Bolsheviks in 1918 in Petrograd under a propaganda poster Death to the bourgeois and its lapdogs–Long live the Red Terror!! Scene Three: A wealthy farmer in front of a Chinese communist People's Court in Fogang County, Guandong Province on July 23, 1952 during the Land Reform Movement, which saw the mass killings of landlords. Scene Four: Rooms of the Tuol Sleng Genocide Museum in Cambodia containing thousands of photographs taken by the Khmer Rouge, the Cambodian Communist Party, of their victims. These are scenes of horror which blanketed the twentieth century in a blackness so black that Satan could see his greatest son emerge from the depths in starkness and clarity. These are scenes of horror, for centuries unimaginable and inconceivable to civilized people, springing out of the pages of the son's most popular work. Faithful enforcements of the son's Communist Manifesto, the successor to the Christian Bible as the most popular published work of all time and after the Bible the greatest manifesto of mass murder in history, these scenes of horror unleashed by Karl Marx were put into practice by communist parties north, south, east and west. The parties of collectivism, class war and Karl Marx migrated like a cancer throughout the world, setting up shop and flourishing wherever masses hated and feared freedom, which was everywhere in the late modern age of the West, and their programs and platforms moved into the mainstream and expressed popular opinion. In the nation which led the struggle of the free world against communism, the nation which supplied the arsenal and lit the lighthouse for freedom, there emerged a communist party in the twentieth century whose successes have been shaping the nation's politics for a century. That nation is the United States of America; its descent into communism is a terrifying illustration of the power of mass degeneration in the final stage of civilization to fell even the mightiest of nations; and its communist party, establishing communism packaged over the decades as the New Deal, Social Security, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier, the Great Society, the War on Poverty, the Affordable Care Act and Build Back Better, is called the Democrat Party. In the twenty first century, the Democrat Party is an unabashed supporter of communism in all its horror and is continuing the campaigns of the former Communist Bloc parties to bring down holocausts and destroy every last trace of freedom. On November 21, 2025, the United States House of Representatives passed Resolution 58, called Denouncing The Horrors Of Socialism, and one hundred members of the Democrat Party, fifty percent of the party's membership in the House, voted against it. Democrat Party. The Democrat Party supports the totalitarian dictatorship of the majority over the individual. It supports government brutality in the name of mass equality. It supports communist famine and mass murder which have claimed the lives of 100 million people worldwide. It supports the greatest criminals in history, the henchmen of Karl Marx, figures called Vladimir Lenin, Joseph Stalin, Mao Zedong, Fidel Castro, Pol Pot, Kim Jong Il, Kim Jong Un, Daniel Ortega, Hugo Chavez and Nicolas Maduro, and their campaigns to annihilate mankind. It supports communist gulags, terror, starvation and slave labor in the name of the collective good. It supports the communist Great Leap Forward into genocide. It supports communist killing fields submerging nations in oceans of blood. It supports communist borders dividing nations and consigning one half to slavery. It supports communist walls imprisoning nations and shooting down those seeking to escape. It supports communist soviets and people's republics institutionalizing tyranny and fear. It supports the communist expropriation of farmers, businesses, careers, livelihoods, entrepreneurs, all those exhibiting industry and skill, and all personal possessions, reducing people to rags. It supports the communist robbery of Peter to subsidize Paul. It supports the communist declarations of the primacy of a god called the Collective and the sacrifice of personal liberty, safety and security on its altar. It supports the communist nationalization of the mind, body and fruits of one's labor. It supports the communist seizure of the class of producers to serve the class of nonproducers. It supports the communist rejection of individual rights, freedoms and dignity and the reduction of human persons to animals, chained and shackled in the service of the state: "Whereas socialist ideology necessitates a concentration of power that has, time and time again, collapsed into communist regimes, totalitarian rule, and brutal dictatorships; Whereas socialism has repeatedly led to famine and mass murders, and the killing of over 100,000,000 people worldwide; Whereas many of the greatest crimes in history were committed by socialist ideologues, including Vladimir Lenin, Joseph Stalin, Mao Zedong, Fidel Castro, Pol Pot, Kim Jong Il, Kim Jong Un, Daniel Ortega, Hugo Chavez, and Nicolas Maduro; Whereas tens of millions died in the Bolshevik Revolution, at least 10,000,000 people were sent to the gulags in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and millions more starved in the Terror-Famine (Holodomor) in Ukraine; Whereas between 15,000,000 and 55,000,000 people starved to death in the wake of famine and devastation caused by the Great Leap Forward in China; Whereas the socialist experiment in Cambodia led to the killing fields in which over a million people were gruesomely murdered; Whereas up to 3,500,000 people have starved in North Korea, dividing a land of freedom from a land of destitution; Whereas the Castro regime in Cuba expropriated the land of Cuban farmers and the businesses of Cuban entrepreneurs, stealing their possessions and their livelihoods, and exiling millions with nothing but the clothes on their backs; Whereas the implementation of socialism in Venezuela has turned a once prosperous country into a failed State with the highest rate of inflation in the world; Whereas President Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, wrote, 'To take from one, because it is thought that his own industry and that of his fathers has acquired too much, in order to spare to others, who, or whose fathers have not exercised equal industry and skill, is to violate arbitrarily the first principle of association, the guarantee to every one of a free exercise of his industry, and the fruits acquired by it'; Whereas President James Madison, the Father of the Constitution, wrote that it 'is not a just government, nor is property secure under it, where the property which a man has in his personal safety and personal liberty, is violated by arbitrary seizures of one class of citizens for the service of the rest'; and Whereas the United States was founded on the belief in the sanctity of the individual, to which the collectivistic system of socialism in all of its forms is fundamentally and necessarily opposed: Now, therefore, be it Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress denounces socialism in all its forms, and opposes the implementation of socialist policies in the United States." Democrat Party. The Democrat Party supports socialism in all its statist, oppressive, bloodthirsty forms. It supports state owned wages, grocery stores, daycare centers and transport systems. It supports confiscatory taxation on the producers of wealth to subsidize an everexpanding regime of welfare entitlements. It supports social parasites free riding on the backs of those who work for their bread. It supports socialism in the name of reducing the cost of living. It condemns public resolutions against communism and in support of freedom as wastes of time, and seeks to make its ideology of universal enslavement the official religion of the state: "The House of Representatives approved a resolution condemning the 'horrors of socialism' Friday morning in a vote that sharply divided Democratic lawmakers. Lawmakers voted 285 to 98 in favor of the measure offered by Republican Florida Representative Maria Elvira Salazar, the daughter of Cuban exiles, that denounced socialism in 'all its forms' and socialist policies in the United States. Representative Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez of New York, who is viewed as a leader of the Democratic Party's left flank, opposed the measure condemning socialism. The vote comes as support for socialism is on the rise across the country with proudly socialist candidates winning mayoral races in New York City and Seattle this November. New York City mayor elect Zohran Mamdani has proposed raising the minimum wage to $30, launching government run grocery stores and making the city's bus system free to ride. Mamdani has sidestepped questions about how he intends to pay for the free buses after Democratic New York Governor Kathy Hochul balked at raising taxes. An increasingly larger portion of Democrats prefer socialism to capitalism, according to a Gallup poll released in September. The poll found that 66% of Democrats hold a positive view of socialism compared to 44% who view capitalism favorably. Republicans slammed their Democratic counterparts for opposing the resolution. 'There is nothing 'controversial' about denouncing a poisonous, failed, and deadly ideology,' Salazar, whose parents fled Cuba when communist Fidel Castro took power, wrote on X. 'Socialism will never take root in the United States. Not while I'm here to stop it.' Democrats, led by California Representative Maxine Waters, argued the resolution was a waste of time and said the lower chamber should be focused on lowering costs for Americans." (Disturbing Math: Nearly 100 Democrats Refuse To Vote To Condemn Socialism by Adam Pack). Democrat Party. In the early decades of the twentieth century, America's Democrat Party imported a religion from the sewers of Europe. It imported an ideology from the abode of the morally dead, agitating beneath the shining earth of freedom. It imported it because the American masses demanded the importation, and demanded it without tariffs or duties of any kind. This was Satan's premier creed in modern times called Marxism. The heir and successor of Christianity, it replaced the Christian God with a god called the Collective as the collector of human sacrifice and the wielder of totalitarian power. Its creed of collectivism, rejecting the existence of man as a free born agent and the inherent right of the individual to live and work for himself, enslaved human thought and action to chains and shackles marked social responsibility. These chains and shackles formed a barbed wire fence around the former Communist Bloc of nations, reaching from the Soviet Union to China to Cambodia to North Korea to Cuba, extinguishing every last candle of freedom within and claiming the lives of one hundred million people. In America in the twenty first century, the Democrat Party is the most powerful and influential communist party, representing fifty percent of the electorate or 48 million voters, and is remaking the nation in the image of a multiheaded Marxist monster of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics. This is the program, the platform and the monster called the Democrat Party of America.

THE AFFORDABLE CARE ACT: AMERICA'S SACRED COW

It is known as Sagarmatha in Nepal and Qomolangma in Tibet. Rising 9000 meters into the sky, it is the highest mountain in the world and has been a supreme attraction and challenge to mountain climbers for decades. Situated on the China-Nepal border in the Himalayas, and worshiped by Buddhists as the "Goddess of inexhaustible giving," Mount Everest is also a valley. It is a valley of death which has claimed the lives of hundreds of people in its seventy year climbing history which commenced with the expedition of Edmund Hillary, who reached its summit in 1953. The progress of socialism and welfare statism forms a dark mountain whose summit is total enslavement. By contrast with the Buddhist exaltation of Mount Everest, it is dark mountain of inexhaustible moral killing. In the nation whose arsenal defended the cause of freedom for decades, the dark mountain of socialism and welfare statism has been reached in the twenty first century, and forms a gigantic descent into a valley of moral bankruptcy which has claimed the soul of the nation. In the twenty first century, the United States of America has reached the summit of its campaign to enact socialism and welfare statism, a campaign which commenced with the Progressive Era at the dawn of the twentieth century and picked up speed during the New Deal, and that summit is called health care entitlement, and has been enshrined in the Affordable Care Act of 2010. A landmark federal law enacted by the 111th Congress and signed by President Barack Obama, the Affordable Care Act represents the most significant expansion of health care coverage since the enactment of Medicaid and Medicare in 1965, and for the first time in American history enshrines health care for all as a human right. Public support for this summit of American socialism and welfare statism has been overwhelming and all attempts to repeal it have been unsuccessful, and its popularity has made all Supreme Court challenges unsuccessful, inasmuch as the court has since the New Deal served as a political weathervane in place of a real check and balance institution, as a rubber stamp of the mob which will never strike down popular social programs. Look at the provisions of the ACA and see a series of legislative nails driven into the coffin of America. Insurance Regulations. In violation of the principles of free enterprise traditionally sacred to America, the ACA prohibits insurers from denying coverage to individuals based on preexisting medical conditions. It allows premiums to vary only in accordance with age and location, and without regard to preexisting medical conditions. It requires that insurance premiums for older applicants be no more than three times the premiums for younger applicants. It orders insurers to provide "essential medical benefits" to individuals as defined by the National Academy of Medicine: "Ambulatory patient services; emergency services; hospitalization; maternity and newborn care; mental health and substance use disorder services, including behavioral health treatment; prescription drugs; rehabilitative and habilitative services and devices; laboratory services; preventive and wellness services and chronic disease management; and pediatric services, including oral and vision care." It prohibits annual or lifetime coverage limits on essential benefits. It orders insurers to provide preventive care and screenings for women: "All Food and Drug Administration approved contraceptive methods, sterilization procedures, and patient education and counseling for all women with reproductive capacity." (United States Department of Health and Human Services). It prohibits insurers from dropping policyholders when they become ill. It establishes limits on out of pocket payments, and establishes that preventive care, vaccinations and medical screenings cannot be financed by out of pocket payments. Individual Mandate. In violation of the right to liberty implied in the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution, which contain the words "life, liberty and property"; without authorization under the Interstate Commerce Clause in Article I, which grants Congress the power to regulate commerce but not the power to create it by forced purchases of services; and without authorization under the Taxing and Spending Clause in Article I because it does not impose a tax but a penalt: the individual mandate of the ACA, until it was deprived its penalties by the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017, required every individual to obtain health insurance or pay a penalty. Listen to the voices ruling twenty first century America justify an unprecedented and unconstitutional invasion of individual rights, a federal requirement of individuals to obtain health insurance, on the grounds of lowering insurance costs for all and ensuring that nobody is denied a hospital emergency room: "Imagine for a moment that you work in a hospital emergency room. And just outside the door, a man has collapsed from a heart attack. Inside the facility, literally feet away from where he lies, are the equipment and knowledge to save his life. But this man doesn't have health insurance. Would you treat him anyway? Or let him die? If you think the way the vast majority of Americans do, you'd choose to save the man. Whatever your political attitudes, the thought of withholding life-saving treatment from somebody because of ability to pay seems too cruel. And that's fine. I'd make the same decision! But if you believe that, then you should also support what remains one of the most controversial elements of health care reform, even after its enactment. That element is the individual mandate. An individual mandate is a requirement that everybody carry health insurance. Such requirements are a feature of every universal health care system in the world. And, under the recently passed Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, they'd be a feature of America's health care system as well. Starting in 2014, Americans who don't obtain coverage either through a government program, through an employer sponsored private policy or through a plan purchased directly through the new insurance exchanges would be subject to financial penalties." (Common Sense by Jonathan Cole). Individual Mandate. Listen to the voices of twenty first century America justify an unprecedented and unconstitutional invasion of individual rights, a federal requirement of individuals to obtain health insurance, on the grounds of the common good and the greater good of the state: "It's a fact of life that no one, without good reason, wants to assume an obligation that does not directly benefit them individually. But spreading the risk is the nature of insurance; any insurance. The ability to offer health insurance to the general public at affordable rates required that the risk to health insurers also be spread across the general public, hence the public mandate. As a healthy 20 something who has maximum health and minimal financial assets, it's a clear burden that only a broader sense of community would help mitigate. As a 60 something, despite the fact that I'm quite healthy, I represent a much greater risk for medical expenses to health insurers and appreciate the availability of coverage. The ACA required the individual mandate to help fund the risk when individuals chose not to or were unable to afford ACA coverage. Maddening to many but a real requirement to have the plan succeed for the greater good." (Sanford Silverberg, Quora.com). Affordable Care Act. Look at the Affordable Care Act and see a regime of communist income redistribution. See a regime giving healthcare subsidies to the poor financed by state plundering of businesses and the rich. See a regime of cradle to grave entitlements abolish the traditional American way of freedom and personal responsibility. See an everexpanding entitlement culture crush the traditional American house of rugged individualism. See the masses vote in overwhelming numbers for a regime of socialism run by proentitlement panderers. See the masses vote in overwhelming numbers for everincreasing welfare benefits, including healthcare for the poor, as the nation descends into moral and economic bankruptcy: "Obamacare is a pure income redistribution play. That means President Obama and the Democratic Party want to put as much money into the hands of the poor and less affluent as they can and the healthcare subsidies are a great way to do just that. And of course, the funds for those subsidies are taken from businesses and affluent Americans who have the cash. Income redistribution is a hallmark of socialism and we, in America, are now moving in that direction. That has angered the Republican Party and many conservative Americans who do not believe our capitalist system was set up to provide cradle to grave entitlements. But Republicans have not been able to convince the majority of Americans that income redistribution is harmful. Mitt Romney was not able to make the case that America will suffer economically if the entitlement culture expands. And the case is simple. Businesses contract so there are fewer jobs. And the massive federal debt rises diminishing the value of the dollar. That's what an entitlement culture and income redistribution bring. But, believe me, many Americans, perhaps most, have no clue about what I just said. And enough of them own free stuff so they continue to elect the proentitlement politicians. Therefore, Obamacare is much more than providing medical assets to the poor. It's about capitalism versus socialism." (ObamaCare And Socialism by Bill O'Reilly). Affordable Care Act. Look at the Affordable Care Act and see a social program immune from Supreme Court nullification despite its violation of the Constitution. In National Federation of Business vs Sibelius, 2012, the Court incomprehensibly ruled that A is not A, that a penalty is not a penalty, and that the individual mandate is constitutional because it can viewed as a tax, and thus falls under the Taxing and Spending Clause of Article I. In King vs Burwell, 2015, the Court incomprehensibly ruled that A is not A, and that a state is not just a state but can also be viewed as the federal government, and that federal subsidies of health insurance can thus be used in states which choose not to offer health insuirance subsidies themselves. In California vs Texas, 2021, the Court rejected the last constitutional challenge to the Affordable Care Act. In 2017, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, signed by President Donald Trump, reduced the individual mandate penalty to zero. In light of this reduction, United States District Judge Reed O'Connor ruled in 2018 that the individual is now unconstitutional and must be struck down: "The Individual Mandate can no longer be fairly read as an exercise of Congress's Tax Power and is still impermissible under the Interstate Commerce Clause—meaning the Individual Mandate is unconstitutional." In California vs Texas, the Supreme Court incomprehensibly ruled that the individual mandate can still remain on the books even though it is now unconstitutional by the Court's own standards because Texas did not have standing to sue California. It did not have standing to sue because it suffered no injuries from a zero tax. The Court incomprehensibly ruled that Article III of the Constitution, establishing the judicial branch of the government, means that A is not A, that unconstututional laws are not unconstitutional laws, and can never be removed from the books if they cannot be shown to have physically injured plaintiffs seeking to challenge them. In California vs Texas, the Supreme Court defied common sense and human sanity and proclaimed that showing the unconstitutionality of a law is insufficient to warrant its removal, in a disgraceful attempt to save a popular social program: "In 2017, Congress reduced the 'tax' imposed on Americans who failed to abide by the individual mandate to $0. With that move, the slender reed that supported the decision in NFIB [National Federation of Business vs Sibelius] was seemingly cut down, but once again the Court has found a way to protect the ACA. Instead of defending the constitutionality of the individual mandate, the Court simply ducks the issue and holds that none of the Act’s challengers, including the 18 States that think the Act saddles them with huge financial costs, is entitled to sue." (California vs Texas, dissenting opinion by Samuel Alito). Affordable Care Act. A third rail is a method of providing electric power to a train by a conductor placed alongside of or between the two rails of the track. America's politics is trapped inside high voltage rails. These are social programs which are supercharged and untouchable owing to their widespread popularity, so that to attempt to repeal any one of them is to commit political suicide. Establishing health care as a human right, the Affordable Care Act joins Social Security and other popular social programs in America's landscape of third rails, in its age of civilizational collapse.

THREE CHEERS FOR GLOBALISM

Then the empire stretched from Hadrian's Wall in drizzle soaked northern England to the sun baked banks of the Euphrates in Syria; from the great Rhine-Danube river system, which snaked across the fertile, flat lands of Europe from the Low Countries to the Black Sea, to the rich plains of the North African coast and the luxuriant gash of the Nile Valley in Egypt. The empire completely circled the Mediterranean, referred to by its conquerors as mare nostrum—'our sea'. (The Roman Empire: A Very Short Introduction by Christopher Kelly). The Roman Empire. The greatest empire of virtue in history, reaching from Europe to North Africa to the Middle East. Expressed by the Greek philosophic triumvirate Socrates, Plato and Aristotle, the Classical morality and politics of rational flourishing formed the basis of the Roman imperium sine fine, or "empire without end", an empire celebrated by Virgil in his Aeneid as granted to the Romans by Jupiter. Encompassing five million square kilometers and containing over 70 million inhabitants at its height under Emperor Trajan in the second century AD, the Roman Empire was the summit of human social organization, uniting barbarian nations and cultures into a single realm ruled by virtue, a realm in which they were deprived of their animal existence and assimilated to human ways of life. Antitribal, antinational, antimulticultural and antidiversity, empires can be a force for the greatest good if they express human reason and virtue as the Roman Empire did, and can be a force for the greatest evil if they tyrannize and enslave populatioms, as the Communist Bloc did. In the West, the British Empire spread the creed of human freedom in the dominions, colonies, protectorates and mandates under its control, and at its height, was the largest empire in history. Exalting the liberal freedom of the Enlightenment in place of the rational virtue of the Romans but allowing all the subjects under its control the freedom to rationally flourish in the manner of the Romans, the British Empire at its height in the early twentieth century brought the blessings of civilization to 412 million people, twenty three percent of the world's population, thirty five million square kilometers and twenty four percent of the earth's land area. Exalted as the "the empire on which the sun never sets", because the sun always shined on at least one of its territories, the British Empire civilized more people and rolled back more savagery than any other empire in history. In the twenty first century, the Roman-British notion of empire is under attack by two forces of evil united by their hatred of reason. It is under attack by two forces of social regression which between them are writing the final lines of the story of the West. The first movement is called Marxism, and it seeks to abolish nations and establish global tyranny and enslavement under a religion of the proletariat, while the second movement is called nationalism, sovereigntism and antiglobalism, and is opposed to all empires whatever, and seeks to revert mankind to the rule of primitive nations, tribes and clans. This second movement is says it is antiMarxist in order to establish a branding difference with its competitor, but exalts religion, tribalism, tyranny and enslavement like Marxism, and differs only in that the imposition is national and not international, local and not express. Look at these two movements and see the West trapped in a state of free fall and civilizational suicide speeding in high gear. Marxism. Look at Marxism today and see it join hands with another totalitarian movement in a campaign to overthrow liberal democracy. See a movement which murdered 100 million people under the Red Star join hands with a movement promoting mass murder under the Red Crescent, and peddle extremism, death, terror bombing, nuclear annihilation and the apocalypse: "On Thursday’s 'Mark Levin Show,” Israeli Ambassador to the United States Yechiel Leiter discussed the killing of two Israeli Embassy staffers on Wednesday and stated there is an “evil nexus of Marxism and Islamism' where 'extremes find a natural connection and they’re very totalitarian in nature and they’re also very bloody in nature.' Leiter said, 'We call this evil nexus of Marxism and Islamism the red-green alliance. And it is, on the surface, a very strange kind of alliance, you’re talking about the extreme left and the extreme right coming together. But extremes find a natural connection and they’re very totalitarian in nature and they’re also very bloody in nature. Marxism was responsible for the murder of 100 million people in the 20th century and Islamism today is absolutely committed to the death cult that's emanating from Iran, in particular, not exclusively, but in particular.' He continued, 'And it lends some credence and understanding to Israel's insistence that Iran doesn't get a nuclear bomb, because if they do, they will use it. There's no restraint at all, whatsoever, with these people. It's a vicious death cult that doesn't really consider how many people they take down with them in their apocalyptic vision of the future.' " (Israeli Ambassador To US On Killing Of Embassy Staff: There's 'Evil Nexus Of Marxism and Islamism' by Ian Hanchett). Look at Marxism today and see the transformation of doctors into social justice warriors marching under the flags of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation ideologies. See doctors told to provide better health care to blacks than to whites. See medical schools obey the motto Do No Harm to Blacks but Do Harm Whites. See medical decisions made on the basis of politics in place of science. See medical schools teach critical race theory, which proclaims that progressive political theory is critical of liberal, rationalist Enlightenment ideas and is the theory of black Marxism and totalitarian dictatorship. See medical schools train students to serve as Marxist social workers. See medical schools train students to serve as climate change activists. See medical schools train students to serve as activists for policies of discrimination on the basis of race and gender paraded as the achievement of diversity, equity and inclusion. See medical schools transformed into centers of Marxism and train students to become doctors of wokism and to condemn liberal democracy as a regime of discrimination against women, nonwhites and the poor: "Dr Stanley Goldfarb, chair of medical advocacy group Do No Harm, warned of a growing movement by American medical schools and professional organizations to 'turn physicians into social justice warriors.' Breitbart News obtained exclusive access to a private lecture to around 130 doctors and medical professionals near Richmond, Virginia, who see their profession under threat of racialized care and politically oriented medical decision making. Goldfarb spoke about his time as associate dean for curriculum at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, where he saw the encroachment of Critical Race Theory style ideologies into schools meant to train future doctors. 'Medical education is really on the decline,' Goldfarb said, as they started to 'worry more and more about the social conditions from where patients come.' Goldfarb asked rhetorically, 'What am I supposed to do about their housing problems?' 'When we had problems, you know what we did about those problems? We referred them to social workers,' the kidney specialist continued. Goldfarb went on to explain a push to force climate change classes for doctors, as well as a requirement on many medical school applications that students explain the depth of their support for diversity, equity, and inclusion ideology. The changes to the teaching of medicine at Penn came after a person 'steeped in wokism' with an EdD—the same education doctorate held by first lady Jill Biden—started making changes. 'If there is a center of Marxism in the United States, it exists in schools of education,' Goldfarb said." (Doctors Warn Of 'Movement To Turn Physicians Into Social Justice Warriors' by Breccan Thies). Nationalism. Look at nationalism today and see the fascism of yesteryear rebranded as populism. See it reject global capitalism, liberal democracy and an open society in the name of race and ethnicity. See it reject all forms of migration, vetted and unvetted, in the name of the purity of the blood. See it reject universal truth and morality in favor of national remembrance, national destiny and national history. See it move from a fringe movement to occupy the political center stage alongside of Marxism, and form a curtain of hate, reaching from Warsaw to Amsterdam to Bucharest to Berlin to London to New York, bringing down the final act of Western civilization: "From the end of the Cold War to the most recent past, liberal democracy had appeared as an untouchable institution. For almost twenty five years, the establishment of open economies, economic and social integration, and technocratic governance defined the political consensus in Europe. Nevertheless, today this consensus is disintegrating; the entire ideological structure is falling apart. Nationalist and populist political actors, who in the past were on the fringe, are now advancing in Warsaw, Amsterdam, Bucharest, Berlin, and many more. The victory of Karol Nawrocki in the race for the President of Poland, which took place at the beginning of this year, has been a notable event of these changes. Nawrocki, a historian and the former leader of the Institute of National Remembrance, was the candidate to voice the voice of his country, to proclaim the power of his national history, and to make a requirement to be the owner of his own destiny. No one should be surprised by this election outcome or think of it as merely the outcome of a clever campaign—it was an expression of the public's manifest disapproval of the EU politics and the liberal elite. Poland's pivot and political resilience have become evident. Besides, Poland is not the only one. (The Right On The Rise: Nationalism And The Changing Face Of Europe by Ramin Babayev). Atavism. Atavism is a key term in the social sciences and refers to a process of reversion of society to a state of primitivism. It is a symptom of imminent social collapse and presents a spectacle sending the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. Having rejected human essentialism and the Enlightenment, the late modern age of the West is racing backward into prehistoric caves. These are the caves of tribalism, balkanization and the endless multiplication of groups. Represented by Marxism and nationalism, a bacterial underworld crawling with gender tribes, race tribes, class tribes, blood tribes, national tribes, ethnic tribes, culture tribes and sexual orientation tribes is overrunning the house of civilization, swarming into every room, and bringing down the crash of the West.

RELIGION KILLS

Their symbols are as numerous as the mental illnesses behind them. The Cross, the Star of David, the Red Crescent, the Hammer and Sickle, the Swastika and thousands of others, scattered like scarecrows through the corridors of time, sending the chill of fear through civilized people, prompting them to run away from them and run for their lives. They are symbols of religions, symbols of systems seeking to relate people to realms of supernatural existence nonphysical, nonperceivable and nonlocatable, and symbols of movements of mass destruction which have halted the wheels of progress wherever they have taken root. For thousands of years, since the Grim Reaper called Religion first began stalking mankind, it has been suppressing thought and opinion, and regimenting discourse to support its rejection of reason, science, common sense and human sanity. For thousands of years, religion has been burning down the houses of human knowledge and burning heretics at the stake, making sane understanding and the recognition of physical reality as the only reality a crime punishable by death. The history of popular acceptance of religions is a history of cultural suicide at the hands of the masses, the enemies within, native hordes inside the gates of civilization. Item. Look at Marxism, the most popular religion in history after Christianity, and see it worship a god called the Collective in place of the Christian god in heaven. See it commit mass murder through communist parties and communist governments. See levels of legalized, government sanctioned mass murder committed without precedent in history. See people shot, starved, enslaved and deported in the name of human liberation. See a morality proclaiming that the ends justifies the means set into motion a holocaust against the producers of wealth and value. See the rejection of rational politics and the transformation of free societies into the worship of a god on earth called the Collective: "In Russia, which was rechristened the Soviet Union in 1922, the all powerful Communist Party and the Soviet state were to perpetrate crimes against groups of their own population over the next thirty five years, on a scale that is without historical precedent for an individual state. In a protracted and total internal war, millions of people lost their lives, not only in executions and through the inhumane conditions of life in prison and labor camps, but also through forced deportations and famine created or worsened by a regime that wanted to retain power and recreate society–and to begin with, the entire world–literally at any price. The ends were thought to justify the means, or, as expressed in 1919 in the magazine of the Ukrainian ecurity police: 'For us, everything is allowed, as we are the first in the world to raise the sword not to oppress and enslave, but to liberate mankind from its shackles.' " (Russia And The Soviet Union by Klas-Goran Karlsson, in Crimes Against Humanity Under Communist Regimes by Klas-Goran Karlsson and Michael Schoenhals). Item. Look at Marxism and see mass violence, mass famine and mass collapse perpetrated in the name of communist revolution. See the opponents of Marxism, successful farmers, and the producers of wealth and value condemned as kulaks, class enemies and socially dangerous persons, and killed en masse. See uprisings, strikes and demonstrations against Marxist tyranny ruthlessly suppressed. See the abolition of every last trace of human freedom and the transformation of society into an army of fanatics under the command of the Communist Party. See language purged of all expressions for freedom and transformed into a system for the communication of political correctness and ideological lockstep. See government food patrols steal food from those who produced it and redistribute it into the hands of Marxist mobs. See the death penalty given to the supporters of liberal democracy. See Marxist revolutionary power cancel freedom of thought and expression. See the Communist Party impose a reign of terror across the land, bury the people in a pall of executions, arrests and kidnappings, and the annihilate every last trace of human existence: "Over the course of 1918, mass violence escalated in a Russia hit by war, revolution, famine and collapse, which Lenin and his party had taken power over in the previous year. At this time, the Bolsheviks' position in power was far from secure. Their enemies, representatives of the Tsar and opposition parties, men and women of the church and the more affluent farmers who were called 'kulaks', were stigmatized as 'class enemies' or 'socially dangerous persons', and were persecuted to an increasing degree. Representatives of socialist ideas and parties that were not judged to be Bolshevik were hit hard. Uprisings in rural areas and demonstrations and strikes in the cities were met with violence. The death penalty was reintroduced, after having been abolished by the Bolshevik Party in early 1917 when the Tsardom was toppled, and society was militarized both organizationally and linguistically. Problems with food supplies were to be remedied by using a 'war communist policy', the main thrust of which at this time was that farmers who refused to hand over food supplies to poor starving farmers in rural areas and workers and soldiers in cities (the main power base of the Bolshevik Party) were hit by reprisals from the 'food patrols' that were sent out by the government. Using terror, which seemed to Lenin and his aides to be a legitimate and indeed necessary policy, enemies of the revolution were to be forced to capitulate to the revolutionary power. The methods were executions, arrests and taking hostages. Extensive amounts of documentation exist that show that leaders of the Bolshevik Party were prepared to annihilate all who were deemed to pose a threat to their position of power, and that terror was openly promoted as an effective tool of power." (Russia And The Soviet Union by Klas-Goran Karlsson, in Crimes Against Humanity Under Communist Regimes by Klas-Goran Karlsson and Michael Schoenhals). Item. Look at Marxism and see mass murder justified as a Great Leap Forward. See people starved to death by Marxist parties, committees, congresses, propaganda departments and red armies in a campaign, incomprehensible to civilized people, to exterminate nations, peoples and societies: "Without a doubt, the most dramatic part of the Great Leap Forward was the famine of almost incomprehensible proportions and the subsequent mass starvation that hit large parts of China between 1959 and 1961. In recent years, many demographers, historians and political scientists have conducted research on this, primarily looking for answers to questions concerning its precise scope (ie the number of victims in different parts of the country during different periods) and the extent to which the responsibility for the large number of deaths in some provinces should be attributed to political or natural factors. There is still no official figure sanctioned by the CCP for the total number of 'people who died an unnatural death' (fei zhengchang siwang–the Chinese expression that could be translated more idiomatically in this context to 'victims') in China between 1959 and 1961–in other words, the number of victims of the famine during/following the Great Leap Forward. Various sources at various levels have given different figures over the years. In 2000 the former secretary to the father of the Red Army (Zhu De) and vice-director of the CCP Central Party History Office, Liao Gailong, claimed that there may have been as many as 'almost 40 million' victims. In a television interview in 2004, a secretary to the former chairman of the Chinese National People's Congress, Wan Li, said that '30 million people starved to death during the three difficult years'. In an encyclopaedical work called The Population of Contemporary China, published in 1988 on the initiative of the CCP's Central Propaganda Department, it is suggested that the number of ‘people who died an unnatural death during the three difficult years’ was somewhere between 20 and 30 million." (People's Republic Of China by Michael Schoenhals, in Crimes Against Humanity Under Communist Regimes by Klas-Goran Karlsson and Michael Schoenhals). Item. The timeline of religion is a timeline of war and oppression against humanity. It saw the killing of pagan Romans by Jewish assassins, zealots and rebels in the second century AD. To protect the rule of reason and empire of virtue against attacks by this founding Abrahamic faith, Romans sought to eradicate Jews in First Jewish-Roman War, 66–73 AD, the Kitos War, 115–117 AD, and the Bar Kokhba Revolt, 132–136 AD. The timeline of religion saw the destruction of the pagan Library of Alexandria, the greatest repository of knowledge in the Classical world, containing over 700,000 scrolls, by Caliph Omar in the seventh century AD. It saw the papacy conduct the Crusades to Palestine between 1095 and 1291, which killed three million people, condemned as heretics. It saw the Catholic Inquisition burn millions of people and books condemned as heretical in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. It saw class genocide committed by the Communist Bloc, and race genocide committed by an offshoot of communism, substituting race for class, called national socialism, ruling Hitler's Third Reich. In the twenty first century, it has seen the establishment of a digital Inquisition policing online speech for antiMarxist content, condemned as misinformation and disinformation. It has seen schools from kindergarten to college transformed into Marxist indoctrination centers. It has seen the antiMarxist opposition censored and thrown into jail for violating hate speech laws. Conducting brainwashing campaigns in the echo chambers of a neoMarxist, new tribalist, gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, today's establishment has reignited the violence of the Catholic Inquisition, the Crusades, the Communist Bloc and the Third Reich, and swept Enlightenment ideas into the dusbin of history.

THE GREAT WHITE WHALE

Satan prone on the Flood, extended long and large/Lay floating many an acre, in bulk as huge/As whom the fables name of monstrous size:/Titanium, or Earth born,/or that sea beast/Leviathan, which God of all his works/Created hugest that swim the ocean stream. (Paradise Lost by John Milton, Book I). Leviathan. A sea serpent demon haunting the religions and myths of the world for thousands of years, an aquatic monster, whale-crocodile-Devil, whose size and strength have sent the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. These primordial visions have come to terrifying actuality over the past one hundred years in the emergence of the totalitarian state, and the Marxist regimes of the East Bloc and the neoMarxist, race Marxist regime of Hitler's Germany, substituting race war for class war, have rendered the period commencing in the twentieth century an unprecedented age of violence. In the twenty first century, yet another leviathan has emerged and added yet more blood to this ocean, and has emerged in the continent which was the birthplace of freedom in the West. It has emerged in Europe and disgraced this hallowed land for all time to come. In the twenty first century, a leviathan called the European Union has emerged from the womb of mass democracy and nullified the ideas and institutions of Europe's glorious Age of Enlightenment. It did not start out this way, when in 1993 the Maastricht Treaty established it, but a decade later, this supranational political and economic union, now occupying over four million square kilometers and containing 450 million inhabitants in twenty seven member states, began expanding into a nightmare creature, and is in 2025 a full fledged cancer of totalitarian tyranny, whose cells are multiplying in a virus house called popular demand. The European Union Today. Look at the EU today and see the march of statism trample over ancient freedoms and bring a one thousand year old story of freedom, inaugurated with the first tolling of clocks across the continent in 1000 AD, to a close. See Germany ban nuclear energy and subsidize electric cars, electric energy, heat pumps and windmills. See Germany post a public debt equal to sixty two percent of its Gross Domestic Product. See Finland post a public debt equal to ninety percent of its GDP. See Germany bail out its banking and insurance industries. See the costs of the state sector in Germany equal fifty percent of its GDP. See the costs of the state sector in France equal fifty seven percent of its GDP. See social media platforms placed under state control to censor antiMarxist dissent. See the opponents of Marxism thrown into jail for violating hate speech laws. See antiMarxist political leaders such as Donald Trump condemned as right wing fascists and hate mongers. See the promotion of a social market, a statist market, a regulated market, a green market and every type of market except a free market. The European Union Today. Look at the EU today and see it justify discrimination in employment on the basis of race and gender as the achievement of diversity, equity and inclusion. See it promote communism and green doomsday politics under the banners of maintaining environmental, social and governance standards for corporations. See it promote green doomsday politics under the banners of corporate sustainability. See it condemn capitalism as a regime of discrimination against women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor. See it condemn modern scientific and technological civilization under the banners of a green agenda. See it ban fossil fuels and roll back the Industrial Revolution. See it declare war on private investment and economic growth. See it place business behavior under the control of the state in the name of social responsibility. See it establish state control of the economy in form of Corporate Sustainability Reporting Disclosure Requirements and Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence Directives. See it promote lawsuits against companies from environmental activists seeking to transform them into green party and communist party agitation centers: "Over 20 Republican state attorneys general sent a letter to President Donald Trump on Tuesday urging him to fight European Union (EU) regulations that 'demand' that diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) and environmental, social, and governance (ESG) standards be 'incorporated into companies.' The attorneys general, led by Florida AG James Uthmeier and West Virginia AG John McCuskey, first thanked Trump for the work he has done 'to bring jobs back to the United States, protect our borders, clean up our streets, hold narcoterrorists accountable, remove the scourge of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) policies from our universities, and push back against the Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) regime that puts the woke green agenda ahead of hard working Americans.' 'Your Administration had made great progress combatting ESG and DEI initiatives,' the letter stated, before bringing the bad news. 'We write, however, because the European Union is poised to implement its corporate sustainability directive, which will impose sweeping ESG and DEI requirements on American companies. These requirements are directly opposed to your administration's priorities and to our country's law.' The EU's corporate sustainability directive's disclosure requirements are part of its 'radical green agenda,' with the attorneys general saying its purpose is to 'disincentivize fossil fuels, investment, and economic growth, and to put bureaucrats in Brussels in charge of policies directing American operations.' 'This cannot stand,' the letter continued to tell Trump. 'You have successfully fought similar European Union regulations in the past, and American companies need you to champion them again.' The attorneys general went on to outline the two main EU corporate sustainability directive regulations that need the president's attention: 'The first is the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive (CSRD), which includes 'comprehensive and granular disclosures covering the entire spectrum of sustainability topics.' Make no mistake, the purpose of these requirements is far beyond reporting; it 'is aimed at driving change in the business behavior of companies that operate in the EU.' These disclosure demands are sprawling and 'would extend to direct and indirect business relationships across the value chain.' It's no surprise then that '[t]hese disclosures are expected to be some of the most challenging areas of reporting, given the scope and the reliance on information from parties not controlled by the company. The problems with the CSRD are clear. These disclosures require not only an inordinate amount of time and expense for compliance but also place conflicting pressure on the many American companies who have—in response to your electoral landslide—changed their ESG policies. Not only that, but CSRD's disclosure requirements put US companies at risk of lawsuits here at home for making unverifiable mandatory disclosures. It is easy to imagine how the attorneys general in states like New York and California could use companies' CSRD disclosures as ammunition for green washing lawsuits here at home. American companies should not be forced into that impossible position. The second main regulation within the corporate sustainability directive is the (CSDDD). 'The aim of [the CSDDD] is to foster sustainable and responsible corporate behavior in companies' operations and across their global value chains.' While couched in terms of sustainability, it really is a demand that ESG and DEI be incorporated into companies. Worse still, the CSDDD includes aggressive enforcement mechanisms; it allows for aggressive government enforcement—including through serious penalties—and also creates a private right of action against companies that do not fully implement these unconstitutional and immoral requirements.' 'As your Administration continues in trade negotiations around the world and in Europe, we ask that your Administration keep in mind the harmful impacts of European Union's corporate sustainability directive,' the attorneys general stated in their conclusion. 'Not only does it cost US companies financially, it threatens American jobs by creating disincentives for American companies that invest in or utilize fossil fuels. And worse, it creates potential liability for companies who do not wish to partake in this climate radicalism.' " (22 Republican AGs Call On Trump To Fight European Union Regulations by Olivia Rondeau). The European Union Today. Look at the EU today and see it proclaim that liberal freedom is slavery. See it reject freedom of speech in the name of eliminating harmful online content and protecting civic discourse and public security. See it demand that social media platforms deploy mitigation measures to eliminate politically incorrect, antiMarxist speech. See it reject one thousand years of freedom in favor of Soviet style censorship and totalitarian power: "The 'primal fear' among the European left of dissent has driven them to believe Elon Musk and X are actually a greater threat to democracy than the 'totalitarian censorship' being enacted in the name of freedom, the lead reporter in a top European newspaper writes. The European Union is developing a pretty taste for paradox in its quest to save freedom by killing freedom, so says the leader editorial in Germany's newspaper of record Die Welt in response to the Commission's petulant letter addressed to Elon Musk on Monday night. Published shortly before Musk's big interview with President Trump on Monday night, the letter from European Commissioner Thierry Breton, the bloc's would be censor in chief demanded X/Twitter deploy 'mitigation measures' against 'harmful content' that could 'generate detrimental effects on civic discourse and public security' in Europe." (Top German Paper Blasts EU's Censorious Attempt To Save Freedom by Killing Freedom by Oliver JJ Lane). The European Union Today. He was thirty meters long, larger than any recorded sperm whale, the largest sperm whale which ever lived. Harpoons were embedded in his side from unsuccessful hunts, for he was unassailable. Able to break boats in half with his jaws and reduce them to splinters, he was the embodiment of horror and malignity. His name was Moby Dick, and he is the antagonist in Herman Melville's classic novel bearing his name. Erasing free minds and free markets by bureaucratic interventions in the name of Marxist politics, taxing private capital, growth, investments and prosperity out of existence, declaring war on scientific and technological civilization in the name of reducing atmospheric greenhouse gas emissions, bankrupting Europe through inflation caused by rampant money creation to finance welfare states, crushing Europe beneath trillion euro debt service to finance welfare states, and unleashing migrant barbarians across Europe, spreading terror in the name of global Islam, Moby Dick in the twenty first century has opened up his jaws and consumed Europe.

THE ENEMIES WITHIN

Fruit rot is a plant disease which can wreak mass destruction on farms. Caused by fungi, bacteria and viruses, its symptoms include brown spots, black spots, softening, shrivelling and mold growth. Confronted with fruit rot, farmers must reduce the humidity in the air, which efficiently carries pathogens, and apply chemicals to the fruit and leaves. Rotted fruit must be immediately destroyed because it contains poisons lethal to man and animals. Civilizational rot presents the same picture as fruit rot and wreaks mass destruction across cities and nations. It is caused by the fungi, bacteria and viruses of moral degeneration, leading to the rejection reason and the embrace of religion, but unlike fruit rot, it cannot be stopped because the causes are ingrained in the late stage psyche of the masses. A rotting civilization is morally blackened, softened, shrivelled and moldy, and is collapsing into poisons which will cause institutions to crash, burn and kill millions. Ancient Rome had rotted away before it was reduced to smoking ruins and debris, its rejection of pagan reason leading to the ascendancy of Christianity, socialism, statism, mobocracy, and multiculturalism leading to the acceptance of barbarian migration and settlements. In the West in the twenty first century, a process of civilizational rot which commenced in the twentieth century is reaching its culminatioin and pushing the West inexorably into the abyss. This process of moral degeneration leading to the rejection of reason, decades in the making prior to the twentieth century and following the fall of the Enlightenment, has produced three enemies within which are digging the grave of the West. These enemies, allowed by the masses through the gates of civilization and allowed to settle and expand, are Marxism, fascism and the Christisan Right. Look at them today and see civilization being morally hollowed out and rendered unrecognizable. Marxism. Look at the world today and see the proclamation that progressive education teaches students critical race theory, which is critical of Enlightenment ideas and promotes black race essentialism and black proletarian politics in their place. It teaches students gender theory, which rejects the biological reality of human sex determination and proclaims that sex is changeable. It teaches students the ideology of black supremacy and race Marxism called Black Lives Matter. It teaches students the importance of acheiving diversity and inclusion in schools and businesses, and giving preferential treatment on the basis of race and gender in place of traditional policies of nondiscrimination, and teaches students that such policies represent the highest forms of fairness and equity. It teaches students that society must be run by activists rioting under the banners of wokeism, illiberalism and the suppression of dissent. It teaches students that capitalism is a regime of racism and Marxism must supplant it in the name of antiracism. It teaches students that liberal democracy is a regime of oppression of women, nonwhites, gays, transgenders, Muslims, illegal migrants and the poor. It teaches students that liberal, universalist, Enlightenment institutions must be replaced by the Marxist politics of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation: "Education advocacy organization Parents Defending Education (PDE) has launched an initiative to expose 'progressive education policies' in private schools. While public schools have been the main focus when it comes to children being taught critical race theory or gender theory, many private schools—thought to be respites from public schools indoctrinating children—have similar or even expanded curriculums. 'Many private schools are just as bad—if not worse—than public schools; it's just that these problems are rarely publicized!' PDE president and founder Nicole Neily said. 'This information asymmetry is exploited by schools—which is why we wanted to compile information and put it into simple sites, so that parents can learn more about what's going on behind the schoolhouse gates and decide whether they truly want to send their children—and their hard earned money—to these institutions.' In order to expose private schools, PDE has organized school specific websites with information found both in their research and provided by parents. Such sites also allow parents to flag important information anonymously, as speaking out against such policies has had detrimental social and professional effects for parents in the past. For example, parents of the Bronx, New York based Horace Mann School have a site where they can 'find out the truth about the transformation of a once great elite NYC private school after its administrators began taking direction from a group of illiberal BLM ideology inspired activists.' Among other issues, parents are being forced to 'undergo both mandatory and 'optional' training in 'antiracism' and 'diversity, equity and inclusion,' according to the New York Post. Similarly, the Atlanta, Georgia based Westminster Schools have a microsite where parents can 'find facts and examples that illustrate the disturbing wokeism that blights Atlanta's academic powerhouse.' 'This is the voice for those who are uncomfortable with the progressive transformation of Wokeminster's campus but are afraid to speak up,' the website reads. 'Microsites are one of the many tactics that parents can employ in their quest to bring greater accountability and oversight to their schools, and we hope that this serves as inspiration for other parents around the country to build their own in the future,' Neily concluded." (Education Advocates Launch Site Exposing Leftist Private Schools by Breccan Thies). Fascism. Look at the world today and see the rising influence of nationalism, nativism, antisemitism, and racial and ethnic politics. See the rejection of free trade in favor of economic protectionism. See the rejection of universalist, liberal Enlightenment principles in favor of nationalism. See fascism peddled as conservatism and promoted by Young Republicans and the Heritage Foundation. See fascism peddled in conspiracy theories. See brazen defenses of Hitler, the Holocaust and national socialism: "Nationalism doesn't just historically correlate with bigotry—it consistently drives antisemitism and other racial and ethnic prejudices. Indeed, nationalism intensifies preexisting antisemitic impulses. To the degree that today's conservatives decide to embrace—or even just make peace with—nationalism and dispense with the universalist liberal principles of the American Founding, they will find it difficult to impossible to stem the spread of antisemitism in their midst. In October, Politico published an explosive report disclosing a selection of vile antisemitic and pro-Nazi messages from leaked group chats written by leaders of Young Republican chapters and various state GOP politicians and staffers. Later that month, Heritage Foundation President Kevin Roberts mired his organization in the controversy when he publicly defended prominent far right podcaster Tucker Carlson—a longtime promoter of antisemitic ideas and conspiracy theories—after Carlson conducted a fawning interview promoting Nick Fuentes, an even more notorious antisemitic influencer who openly defends the nazis. Heritage has long been one of the most influential conservative think tanks. The Heritage incident provoked a wave of condemnations from prominent conservative intellectuals and politicians, including Senator Ted Cruz of Texas, as well as several high profile resignations from Heritage, including Princeton political theorist Robert George and George Mason University legal scholar Adam Mossoff. I myself was a Heritage college student intern back in 1994. It was a very different institution then. I would not work with them today, a conclusion I reached years ago based on their descent into illiberal nativism and nationalism. In 2022, I turned down an invitation to contribute to the new edition of the Heritage Guide to the Constitution. In retrospect, I should have been more open about my reasons for refusing at that time, and have tried to rectify my mistake more recently. The presence of antisemites such as Carlson or Fuentes in our public discourse is neither novel nor remarkable. The problem for the conservative movement—and, really, for America—is that they and others like them have a large and growing audience on the right. This is also why institutions like Heritage feel the need to accommodate them. Heritage and others fear that to repudiate them is to cast away an increasingly substantial part of their own base." (Nationalism Is Driving The Neo Right's Virulent Antisemitic Turn by Ilya Somin). Christian Right. Look at the world today and see a Christian Right movement declare war on liberal democracy and the traditional separation between church and state. See it launch a culture war under the sign of the Cross. See it launch a crusade for Christian globalization, continuing where the papacy's crusades to Palestine left off in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries. See it launch a campaign of soft power and hard power to destroy every last trace of secular activity in society. See it reject Enlightenment institutions in favor of Christian militancy, fanaticism, radicalism, polarization, conservatism and traditionalism. See it promote Christian activism, advocacy, funding, messaging campaigns, resource sharing and legal strategies whose aim is to overthrow liberal tolerance and pluralism, establish the rule of a transAtlantic, transPacific alliance of churches reaching from Moscow to Mendocino, from Orthodox to Protestant to Catholic Churches, and bring down a new Dark Ages: "The Christian Right functions as an antagonist to secular politics and pluralism and as a reactionary force vis a vis liberal democracy. The Christian Right in Europe is therefore not to be regarded as some residue of Europe's historical Christianity. Instead, it is a highly politicized form of conservative Christianity that draws strength and sustenance from both the globalization of the American culture wars and Russia's illiberal ambitions for Europe, trading traditional Christian democracy for a more radical, polarized version of politics. Since the 1990s, US Christian Right organizations have extended their reach into Europe, providing strategic support, funding, and ideological frameworks to support similar activism across Europe. This transatlantic exchange has facilitated the import of advocacy techniques, legal strategies, and messaging campaigns. Simultaneously, Russia has exerted influence through soft power and financial support to disrupt social cohesion and undermine liberal democratic institutions in Europe. Russian actors, including the Russian Orthodox Church and affiliated oligarchs, have fostered alliances with European Christian Right organizations, sharing resources and coordinating efforts to advance a traditionalist agenda across the continent." (The Rise Of The Christian Right In Europe by Gionathan Lo Mascolo and Kristina Stoeckl). Enemies Within. Marxist kindergartens, primary schools, high schools and universities. Marxist Fortune 500 companies. Marxist human resources departments. Marxist racist, sexist diversity, equity and inclusion policies. Marxist rainbow flags flying in place of the hammer and sickle and Soviet Red Star. Marxist Big Tech, Big Media, Big Pharma and Big Government. Marxist mass migration and settlement of global Islam. Marxist subversion and violence in the streets. Marxist delusions and conspiracy theories. Marxist identity politics of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation. Marxist antisemitism and attacks on Israel. Marxist thought police, content regulations, hate speech laws and political correctness. Marxist debanking and deplatforming. Marxist occupations and city take overs. Marxist transgenderism and proper pronoun usage. Marxist newsrooms, narratives, microphones and media bias. Marxist CEOS, shop floors, labor unions and Main Streets. Marxist terror, firebombing and Antifa brigades. Fascist nationalism and sovereigntism. Fascist tariffs and trade protectionism. Fascist populism and patriotism. Fascist white power, racism and antisemitism. Fascist delusions and conspiracy theories. Christian Right theocracies banning secularism, establishing Christian prayer in public schools, declaring one cell preembryonic entities to be actual human persons by virtue of the infusion of a mystical soul, and banning abortions. These are the enemies within the gates of Western civilization in the twenty first century. These are columns of mob malaria, madness and mania, hurling reason into the dustbin of history.

BRITAIN UNDER SURVEILLANCE

In its constant effort to clarify who is who, the Stasi, with its Chekist forces, means and methods—has to identify people's true political attitudes, their ways of thinking and behaving. To clarify means: to provide an answer to who is an enemy; who is taking on a hostile and negative attitude; who is under the influence of hostile, negative and other forces and may become an enemy; who may succumb to enemy influences and allow himself to be exploited by the enemy; who has adopted a wavering position; and who can the party and the state depend on and be reliably supported by. (Erich Mielke, head of the East German Stasi). Mass surveillance is among the defining features of a communist state. Parading under the banners of public safety and security, the communist state through mass surveillance seeks to maintain is grip on power and suppress the voices of dissent. Penetrating into every aspect of human life and making every aspect visible to the government, communism abolishes the right to privacy central to a civilized society and transforms citizens into passive, rightless objects of control. In the twenty first century, the regime of mass surveillance and personal invasion central to the communist state has appeared in the nation which has one of the longest and most glorious human rights traditions in history. Arising from ancient impulses, court decisions, and statutes such as the Magna Carta of 1215, the Petition of Right of 1628, the Bill of Rights of 1689 and the Human Rights Act of 1998, the human rights tradition in Britain has been a teacher, guide and inspiration to the world, pioneering the constitiution of liberty in modern times, spreading an empire of liberty into the dark, distant, savage realms, and giving birth to its greatest son, the United States of America. In the twenty first century, the most influential lighthouse of liberty in history has crashed into the ocean, betrayed and bankrupted by its own people, and been reduced to floating, unrecognizable wreckage. In the twenty first century, the British masses have voted for a regime of mass surveillance the likes of which exists nowhere else in the West, and their ballots illustrate the cancer of statism engulfing late stage civilization, sparing nothing in its path, and felling the oldest and mightiest nations, once dedicated in their DNA to the survival and success of liberty. In the twenty first century, the thousand year old British DNA has been damaged by the ionizing radiation of Western cultural degeneration, and is replicating the regime of mass surveillance pioneered by the former Soviet Union and East Bloc. In the twenty first century, Britain has reestablished communist surveillance mania by majority vote, disgraced its traditions and institutions, and hanged itself for moral high treason. Britain Today. Look at Britain today and see the Labor Party reestablish communist surveillance by popular demand. See it reestablished in the form of facial recognition technology reaching into every village, town and city in the nation. See it reestablished in the form of government data bases comprised of millions of images from doorbells, dashcams and CCTVs. See it reestablished in the name of apprehending wanted fugitives. See it reestablished in the form of a profusion of spy cameras on every street corner. See it reestablished in the form of the greatest density and network of CCTV outside of China. See it reestablished in the name of identifying criminal suspects, solving crimes and advancing police work. See it reestablished in the name of stemming a rising tide of violent disorder. See the quintessentially British open society and protection of freedom, privacy and anonymity repealed in the name of advancing crime prevention and protecting public order. See the mass surveillance of antigovernment protestors and activists fighting for the cause of freedom. See the mass monitoring of antiMarxists in the name protecting public peace and security. See people's natural, inborn, inalienable right to privacy sacrificed on the altar of fighting antisocial behavior. See digital mugshots called faceprints taken of the population through CCTV. See people forced to pass in front of street cameras and deprived of their independence and privacy. See biometric data used to brand innocent people suspects and criminals. See people electronically monitored, categorized and tracked round the clock. See CCTV misidentify innocent people and police detain and question them. See biometric identity checks run without probable cause, intrude on people without constitutional basis, and spread terror through the streets. See people forced to carry digital passes issued by the government in order to exist. See private telephones transformed into spy phones for an all seeing eye and omnipresent state. See people's personal spaces and information invaded. See information stolen and lives destroyed by an authoritarian, Soviet style surveillance regime. See the totalitarian nightmares of communist states enacted by the democratic jackboots of the majority. See a high focus, high definition invasion of the right to privacy. See mass surveillance conducted in the name of combating hatemongers on the far right. See the repeal of privacy and civil liberties, and the use of people's passport photos by the police, transform a once free society into a police lineup and open air prison: "In December 4th, 2025, the United Kingdom’s Labor government announced plans to extend facial recognition technology to every village, town, and city across the country. Alongside this, they want to enable the police to compare images from CCTV, doorbells, and dashcams with government records. The police may also be given access to the images of the 45 million people currently on Britain’s passport database. Of course, this is all being sold as a plan to catch wanted suspects and criminals, and a ten week public consultation is being carried out to pave the way for the technology to be used more often, while 'striking a balance with protecting people’s privacy.' It is not within the scope of the consultation, however, to ask whether such technology should be rolled out to a greater degree in the first place—that appears to be a given. The adjective Orwellian doesn’t quite cover it. CCTV surveillance has become an increasingly common feature across Britain since the 1980s. If one walks through London, it is impossible to miss the profusion of cameras on almost every street corner. The UK already boasts an exceptionally dense network of CCTV cameras and has a higher number per person than any other country in the world except China. Do we really need any more? Crime and Policing Minister Sarah Jones said, 'Facial recognition has huge potential to strengthen how the police keep us safe and we will expand its use so that forces can put more criminals behind bars and tackle crime in their communities.' In 2024, a Channel 4 Dispatches documentary revealed that the Metropolitan Police had failed to solve any low level crimes in more than 160 parts of London in three years. This is despite London having over 690,000 CCTV cameras in operation and being one of the most surveilled cities on Earth. Does the minister seriously think that more cameras being installed would assist the police in their woeful inability to solve crime? In the twelve months ending in March 2023, 39.3% of criminal cases in England and Wales were closed due to no suspect ever being identified. Proponents argue that CCTV helps deter crime and improve public safety, but evidence clearly points to this not being the case. All that happens when CCTV footage is shown on news bulletins is that people become more frightened, thinking that crime is out of control. But maybe that's the point? If people are scared, they are more susceptible to authoritarian measures. Despite claims by advocates, the effectiveness of CCTV in preventing crime is anything but clear cut. Many studies have shown that while cameras may deter certain types of crime, for example in car parks, they do very little to prevent many types of other crimes. Criminals can (and do) adapt by avoiding cameras or disguising their identities. Many viral online clips of violent criminality in Britain show people in masks and hoods. CCTV clearly does nothing to prevent this sort of behavior. Section 60AA of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 allows police officers to compel people to remove face coverings in certain circumstances, but these are very limited and are only for a given time. But even if the indication was that CCTV did deter criminality, any expansion of CCTV, with its proposed high definition capabilities and facial recognition technology, will only undermine any sense of personal freedom and anonymity that is fundamental to our socalled open society. There is also the possibility of 'function creep', where cameras installed for crime prevention will later be used for unrelated purposes, such as monitoring protests or tracking political activists. We have already seen the police in the UK react very differently depending on who they're dealing with, and so the risk of disproportionately targeting people who are lazily labelled as 'far right' is very real. And if the covid lockdowns are anything to go by, the police would be only too willing to use new technology to monitor us. Unchecked surveillance and facial recognition expansion across cities, towns and villages is anathema to everything this country is supposed to stand for. The erosion of privacy, threats to civil liberties, potential for data misuse, questionable effectiveness and negative impacts on trust make it a highly dubious and expensive experiment, one which is unlikely to ever be withdrawn once introduced. Plus, allowing police access to the passport database would effectively convert this resource into a giant mugshot archive, exposing the public to the risks of misidentification and injustice. Big Brother Watch director Silkie Carlo has warned that the increased use of facial recognition technology could turn Britain into an 'open prison.' She's not wrong." (The Genie's Out Of The Bottle by Paul Birch). Britain Today. In 1876, British philosopher Jeremy Bentham travelled to Russia to visit his brother Samuel. He stayed there for two years and during his time, he was inspired by the Russian collectivist national character to invent a terrifying prison called a panopticon. Derived from the Greek word for "all seeing", this prison placed every prisoner, without his knowledge or consent, under round the clock surveillance by a single prison guard. There was of course no way of knowing whether you were being watched at any given moment. You had to live in the assumption that every sound you made was overheard, and, except in darkness, every movement scrutinized. (1984 by George Orwell). From the blueprints of Jeremy Bentham and the pages of George Orwell, a surveillance state has sprung into actuality in Britain in the twenty first century.

JEW HATRED SWEEPS THROUGH THE WORLD

It was formed in 1949 in Lower Saxony by Otto Remer, Fritz Dorls and Gerhard Kruger, and was the heir and successor of the National Socialist Party. Its founders were former national socialists, one a former brownshirt holding a Golden Party Badge conferred by Adolf Hitler on early, faithful members of the SA, while another helped to suppress the July 20 plot to assassinate Hitler. It ran organizations similar to those run by the national socialists, and included a paramilitary Reichsfront, modeled after the SA, a Reichsjugend, modeled after the Hitler Youth, and a Frauenbund, modeled after the National Socialist Women's League. The leading actors in Germany at the time, the American High Commissioner, John McCloy, the Konrad Adenauer government and the Federal Constitutional Court, wanted the Socialist Reich Party banned, and in the face of their efforts, Remer proclaimed: "[They are] Pontius Pilate who caused Herod to crucify Jesus. If we are banned, we will descend into the catacombs." Eighty years after the Socialist Reich Party descended into the catacombs when it was banned in 1952, it has risen from the dead and runs a major global trend today. Eighty years after this first neonazi party in the West vanished into the underground cemeteries of history, it has been resurrected by a new coalition of Jew hatred seeking to destroy what the old coalition led by Hitler sought to destroy. Replacing the old coalition of national socialists and Arabs in the Middle East, the new coalition is again seeking to destroy the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment, liberal democratic order, which it proclaims Jews and the state of Israel represent. In the twenty first century, a movement of Jew hatred, launched by the two major totalitarian camps of our time, joining in a common cause and as comrades in arms, is sweeping through the world and restarting Hitler's gas chambers. These camps are the Marxist left and global Islam, and they represent a powerful, influential neonazi force seeking to continue where Hitler, his World War II Arab allies, and the postwar Socialist Reich Party left off. Jew Hatred. Look at the world today and see a ring of fire murdering Jews reach from Manchester to Washington to Colorado to Sydney to Bondi Beach. See Marxists and jihadists spill rivers of Jewish blood. See Marxists and Muslims, shouting Free Free Palestine, ram cars into Jews, stab Jews, open fire on Jews, spray flamethrowers at Jews and throw Molotov cocktails at Jews. See Marxists and Muslims hunt down Jews from continent to continent, placing nations and cities in the grip of fear. See antisemitic violence triple, quadruple, paint swastikas on schools and chant intifada. See Marxist and Muslim mobs force Jews to hide their identities, cover up their Stars of David, and run for their lives. See Marxist and Muslim madness support Hamas agitation, propaganda, genocidal campaigns and terror attacks on Israel. See Marxists and Muslims stage round the clock hate marches through Western cities. See Marxists and Muslims demand international recognition of a Palestinian terror state committed to the extermination of Jews. See nongovernmental organizations, nonprofit organizations, research institutes, think tanks and academic journals serve as mouthpieces for Marxist, Muslim hate propaganda targeting Jews. See Marxists and Muslims advocate the killing of Jews and the destruction of Israel in the name of advancing human rights. See Marxist and Muslim ideologues and extremists support Palestinian invaders and criminals. See politicians support Marxism and Islam, appease Marxism and Islam, and shed crocodile tears for the Jewish victims of violence. See antisemitic graffiti, flags, hounding and harassment unleashed by Marxists and Muslims. See Jewish fathers, mothers, sons and daughters beg for protection from violence and be spurned by authorities sympathetic to Marxism and Islam. See Jews in every nation crushed by relentless spirals of murder and mayhem. See Jews deprived of their safety and security by Marxist and Muslim hate mongers. See Marxist and Muslim incendiaries light a fuse of Jew hate, ignite a bomb of Jew hate, fan the flames of Jew hate, and bring down a global conflagration burning up reason, law, morality and civilization: "Bondi. Manchester. Washington. Colorado. The list continues. Today, Jewish blood was shed on the sands of Bondi Beach. Twelve Jews were shot at a Hanukkah celebration in Sydney, with dozens more wounded. This horror did not happen out of nowhere. We all saw it coming. Again. 'Never again?' Yeah, right. It was not an isolated act of madness in Australia; it exists everywhere. In Manchester this past Yom Kippur, a jihadist rammed a car into worshippers and stabbed people at a synagogue, murdering two Jews before police subdued him. In Washington, DC, an American gunman opened fire outside a Jewish museum, killing two young Israeli embassy staffers. As he was arrested, he shouted 'Free, Free Palestine!' to reveal the twisted ideology that fuelled his slaughter. In Colorado, an Egyptian immigrant attacked a peaceful proIsrael rally with a homemade flamethrower and Molotov cocktails, injuring seven; an 82 year old woman later died from her burns. From continent to continent, Jews are being hunted. Enough. For two years now, since Hamas launched its latest war, a wave of antiJewish hate has swept through the West. The warning signs have been flashing: in Australia, antiJewish incidents tripled in the year after the war began. Similar spikes have occurred across Europe and the USA. Swastikas on schools. Mobs chanting for intifada. Jewish students hiding their Stars of David. It has been escalating steadily. Now the inevitable has happened again– the hate has turned murderous. We know precisely who helped create this atmosphere. I am looking at everyone who fed this beast. Every single one of them has blood on their hands. Everyone who spent two years spreading antisemitic blood libels straight from Hamas—blood on their hands. (They parroted every lie Hamas spewed, from fake 'hospital massacres' to wild casualty figures. They stoked the flames that led directly to Bondi and beyond.) Everyone sucked in by Hamas propaganda, who spent two years shrieking online about 'Gaza genocide' or confected war crimes while excusing or ignoring Hamas's atrocities—blood on their hands. Everyone who attended the weekly hate marches in Western cities, those angry street mobs that normalized Jew hatred under the guise of Free Palestine—blood on their hands. They created the permissive atmosphere for this violence. Everyone who took Qatari or Iranian media money to peddle lies about Israel—blood on their hands. (They know who they are– the talking heads on state backed TV channels, selling out truth for petrodollars and spreading venom). South Africa's leaders and their fellow travellers, Amnesty International and other NGOs, and all those who kept slandering Israel with vexatious 'genocide' accusations–blood on their hands. Their propaganda provided moral cover to Hamas and depicted Jews as rightful targets. Every country that rewarded Hamas's 7th October massacre by recognizing a Palestinian state (a move Netanyahu rightly called a 'huge reward to terrorism')—blood on their hands. Instead of isolating the genocidal Hamas regime, they gave its supporters hope and legitimacy. Terrorists drew encouragement from their cowardice. The hack researchers and NGOs churning out pseudoacademic garbage about Gaza: Airwars, AOAV, *The Lance*t, and others, treating casualty figures and social media posts as absolute truth—blood on their hands. By exaggerating and/or politicizing casualty numbers and events in Gaza without proper context, they portrayed Israel as a villain and incited mobs worldwide. Those ideological extremists who cheer every proPalestinian criminal and even support terrorists on hunger strike to blackmail the justice system—blood on their hands. They may pretend it is about human rights, but their one sided backing for proPalestinian terrorism (even after 7 October) has emboldened the worst Jew haters. Every politician and official who ignored the warning signs, who looked the other way time after time after time—blood on their hands. You had one job: to protect your citizens. To protect Jews. They failed, and now Jews lie dead on a beach, in a synagogue, and on city streets on their watch. How long can our leaders ignore this? How many red lines must be crossed? I am tired of the empty platitudes and crocodile tears from politicians who let this climate fester. They downplayed antisemitism when it was graffiti, flag waving, or relentless harassment. They shrugged when thousands marched through our capitals waving terrorist flags and shouting for intifada, week after week. They stayed silent when Jewish families begged for protection. Now those same leaders act shocked at the carnage? Spare me. Their cowardice and appeasement helped unleash this nightmare. Mark my words: sooner or later, good and honest citizens will take matters into their own hands. If the authorities refuse to crack down on this violent Jew hatred, people will feel they have no choice but to defend themselves. When that day comes, and if vigilante violence erupts because governments failed to act, there will be even more blood on the hands of those who enabled all this. I dread that possibility, but can anyone blame Jews and their true allies for being at the breaking point? For feeling abandoned and desperate? The murders at Bondi Beach have shattered any illusion of safety. Jews are bleeding, dying, in 2025, in free countries, simply for being Jewish. This is not just a Jewish problem. It is a problem for everyone who believes in decency and civilization. No more. No more indulgence for the hatemongers. No more free passes for the enablers and apologists.

Politicians: clean up this mess now, before it spirals further. Protect your Jewish citizens as you promised, or step aside for someone who will. The blood cries out from Bondi, from Manchester, from Washington and Colorado. To all those who lit the fuse and fanned the flames: I hold you responsible. Their blood is on your hands, and it will never wash off." (Blood On Their Hands by Andrew Fox). Jew Hatred. I know Mr Arafat [Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestinian Liberation Organization] quite well, naturally. I saw him many times. He invited me to eat at his headquarters. I knew all his people. They wanted many things from us. (The Beast Reawakens by Martin Lee). Thus spoke Otto Remer, cofounder of the Reich Socialist Party, comrade of the Arabs, member of an axis power with Islam during World War II, and the éminence grise of Jew haters in the twenty first century,